Irish Question: 1840-1921 Nicholas Mansergh, 1975

The Irish Question Nicholas Mansergh, 2022-11-14

Originally published in 1940 but here reissuing the revised third edition of 1975 this book analyses the Irish Question. The study is not a narrative history. While the problems with which it deals have been suggested by the period it covers, it is with the problems and not the period that it is focussed on. Those problems are the interrelation of economic and social with political forces, the impact of Irish discontent on the Liberal conversion to Home Rule, the character of the political, cultural and social forces behind revolutionary Irish nationalism and the changing nature of the concept itself. Much attention is given to the implications of Anglo-Irish relations in the wider context of nationalist imperial conflicts and critical studies are made of the writings of de Tocqueville, Cavour, Marx, Engels and Lenin among others on the Irish Question. Bryan Fields, 2017-11-22

This title was first published in 2003. Fields traces the origins of recent economic growth in Ireland over a long period of development. In doing so, he opens up an old debate with new data, interpretations and evidence that will force many to question existing truths about the role of religion in economic growth. The work is founded on an innovative methodology and unique primary and secondary resource material that has never been used in a study of this kind. This is timely as the area has a growing international market and addresses some recently ignored themes in the Social Sciences, in particular religion. Whilst concerned with global issues, this text also focuses on one country which economists and sociologists as well as those in other Social Sciences areas will find of great interest.
