of the Jewish American literary field is no longer tenable Schreier asserts in an argument with broad implications for the reconceptualization of Jewish and other identity based ethnic studies

The Dual Image Harold Fisch, 1971 Affiliated Identities in Jewish American Literature David Hadar, 2020-07-23 Focusing on relationships between Jewish American authors and Jewish authors elsewhere in America Europe and Israel this book explores the phenomenon of authorial affiliation the ways in which writers intentionally highlight and perform their connections with other writers Starting with Philip Roth as an entry point and recurring example David Hadar reveals a larger network of authors involved in formations of Jewish American literary identity including among others Cynthia Ozick

Saul Bellow, Nicole Krauss, and Nathan Englander. He also shows how Israeli writers such as Sayed Kashua perform their own identities through connections to Jewish Americans. Whether by incorporating other writers into fictional work as characters, interviewing them, publishing critical essays about them, or invoking them in paratext or publicity, writers use a variety of methods to forge public personas, craft their own identities as artists, and infuse their art with meaningful cultural associations. Hadar's analysis deepens our understanding of Jewish American and Israeli literature, positioning them in a decentered relation with one another as well as with European writing. The result is a thought-provoking challenge to the concept of homeland that recasts each of these literary traditions as diasporic and questions the oft-assumed centrality of Hebrew and Yiddish to global Jewish literature. In the process, Hadar offers an approach to studying authorial identity building relevant beyond the field of Jewish literature. Jewish American Literature since 1945 Stephen Wade, 2013-04-11

Jewish American writing is an exciting and controversial genre within post-war literature. Jewish American Literature since 1945 offers a student guide to the major writers, their key works, and their cultural and philosophical backgrounds. The theoretical underpinnings of the literature, including the postmodern, the master narrative, and metafiction, are also introduced in an accessible form. The themes, issues, and philosophies of key writers such as Saul Bellow, Erica Jong, Arthur Miller, Cynthia Ozick, Philip Roth, and Isaac Bashevis Singer are interrelated, and wider literary and historical topics are explained.

African, Native, and Jewish American Literature and the Reshaping of Modernism A. Kent, 2007-06-11. This book examines literature by African Native and Jewish American novelists at the beginning of the twentieth century, a period of radical dislocation from homelands for these three ethnic groups, as well as the period when such voices established themselves as central figures in the American literary canon. Passing Fancies in Jewish American Literature and Culture Judith Ruderman, 2019-01-09. This scholarly study explores the conflicting forces of assimilation and cultural heritage in literary portrayals of Jewish American identity. In Passing Fancies in Jewish American Literature and Culture, Judith Ruderman takes on the fraught question of who passes for Jewish in American literature and culture. In today's contemporary political climate, religious and racial identities are being reconceived as responses to culture and environment rather than essential qualities. Many Jews continue to hold conflicting ideas about their identity, seeking deep engagement with Jewish history and the experiences of the Jewish people while holding steadfastly to the understanding that identity is fluid and multivalent. Looking at carefully chosen texts from American literature, Ruderman elaborates on the strategies Jews have used to pass from the late nineteenth century to the present: nose jobs, renaming, clothing changes, religious and racial reclassification, and even playing baseball. While traversing racial and religious identities has always been a feature of America's nation of immigrants, Ruderman shows how the complexities of identity formation and deformation are critically relevant during this important cultural moment.
