Jonathan O. Wipplinger,2017-05-16 The Jazz Republic examines jazz music and the jazz artists who shaped Germany's exposure to this African American art form from 1919 through 1933 Jonathan O Wipplinger explores the history of jazz in Germany as well as the roles that music race especially Blackness and America played in German culture and follows the debate over jazz through the fourteen years of Germany's first democracy He explores visiting jazz musicians including the African American Sam Wooding and the white American Paul Whiteman and how their performances were received by German critics and artists The Jazz Republic also engages with the meaning of jazz in debates over changing gender norms and jazz's status between paradigms of high and low culture By looking at German translations of Langston Hughes's poetry as well as Theodor W Adorno's controversial rejection of jazz in light of racial persecution Wipplinger examines how jazz came to be part of German cultural production more broadly in both the US and Germany in the early 1930s Using a wide array of sources from newspapers modernist and popular journals as well as items from the music press this work intervenes in the debate over the German encounter with jazz by arguing that the music was no mere symbol of Weimar's modernism and modernity Rather than reflecting intra German and or European debates it suggests that jazz and its practitioners African American white American Afro European German and otherwise shaped Weimar culture in a central way Video Source Book Gale Group,1999-10-28 A guide to programs currently available on video in the areas of movies entertainment general interest education sports recreation fine arts health science business industry children juvenile how to instruction

Resounding Pasts Drago Momcilovic,2020-05-15 The field of memory studies has long been preoccupied with the manner in which events from the past are commemorated forgotten re fashioned or worked through on both the individual and collective level Yet in an age when various modes of artistic and cultural commemoration have begun to overlap with and respond to one another the dynamics of cultural remembering and forgetting become bound up in an increasingly elaborate network of representations that operate both within and outside temporal cultural and national borders As publicly circulating texts that straddle the line between cultural artifact and artistic object both musical and literary works both individually and often in conjunction with one another help shape cultural memories and individual experiences of those events Troping their cultural milieux through specific aesthetic and social forms genres and modes of dissemination music and literature become part of a growing global panoply of raw materials upon which we might begin to pose questions regarding the way we remember the consequences of sharing and passing on those memories and the aesthetic and cultural pressures attendant upon the circulation and interpretation of texts that re sound the past
