Societies Of Brains A Neuroscience Of Love And Hate:

Societies of Brains Walter J. Freeman, 2014-03-05 This monograph from a leading neuroscientist and neural networks researcher investigates and offers a fresh approach to the perplexing scientific and philosophical problems of minds and brains It explains how brains have evolved from our earliest vertebrate ancestors It details how brains provide the basis for successful comprehension of the environment for the formulation of actions and prediction of their consequences and for cooperating or competing with other beings that have brains The book also offers observations regarding such issues as how and why people fall in and out of love the biological basis for experiencing feelings of love and hate and how music and dance have provided the ancestral technology for forming social groups such as tribes and clans The author reviews the history of the mind brain problem and demonstrates how the new sciences of behavioral electrophysiology and nonlinear dynamics combined with the latest computer technology have made it possible for us to observe brains in action He also provides an answer to the question What happens to a stimulus after it enters the brain The answer The stimulus triggers the construction of a percept and is then washed away All that we know is what our brains construct for us by neurodynamics Brains are not logical devices that process information They are dynamical systems that create meaning through interactions with the environment and each other The book shows how the learning process by which brains construct meaning tends to isolate brains into self centered worlds and how nature has provided a remedy first appearing in mammals as a mechanism for pair bonding to ensure reproduction of the young dependent on parents The remedy is based in the neurochemistry of sex which serves to dissolve belief structures in order to open the way for new patterns of understanding and behavior Individuals experience these changes in various ways such as falling in love collegiate indoctrination tribal bonding brain washing political or religious conversions and related types of socialization The highest forms of meaning for humans come through these social attachments

Beyond the Brain Louise Barrett, 2015-03-22 A new approach to understanding animal and human cognition When a chimpanzee stockpiles rocks as weapons or when a frog sends out mating calls we might easily assume these animals know their own motivations that they use the same psychological mechanisms that we do But as Beyond the Brain indicates this is a dangerous assumption because animals have different evolutionary trajectories ecological niches and physical attributes How do these differences influence animal thinking and behavior Removing our human centered spectacles Louise Barrett investigates the mind and brain and offers an alternative approach for understanding animal and human cognition Drawing on examples from animal behavior comparative psychology robotics artificial life developmental psychology and cognitive science Barrett provides remarkable new insights into how animals and humans depend on their bodies and environment not just their brains to behave intelligently Barrett begins with an overview of human cognitive adaptations and how these color our views of other species brains and minds Considering when it is worth having a big brain or indeed having a brain at all she investigates exactly what brains are good at Showing that the brain's evolutionary function guides action in the world she looks at how physical structure contributes to cognitive processes and she demonstrates how these processes employ materials and resources in specific environments Arguing that thinking and behavior constitute a property of the whole organism not just the brain Beyond the Brain illustrates how the body brain and cognition are tied to the wider world The Caldron of Consciousness Ralph D. Ellis, Natika Newton, 2000-01-01 These new studies by prominent neuroscientists psychologists and philosophers work toward a coherent framework for understanding emotion and its contribution to the functioning of consciousness in general as an aspect of self organizing embodied subjects Distinguishing consciousness from unconscious information processing hinges on the role of motivating emotions in all conscious modalities and how emotional brain processes interact with those traditionally associated with cognitive function Computationally registering processing sensory signals e.g. in the occipital lobe or area V4 by itself does not result in perceptual consciousness which requires subcortical structures such as amygdala hypothalamus and brain stem This interdisciplinary anthology attempts to understand the complexity of emotional intentionality why the role of motivation in self organizing processes is crucial in distinguishing conscious from unconscious processes how emotions account for agency and how an adequate approach to emotion motivation can address the traditional mind body problem through a holistic understanding of the conscious behaving organism Series B Changing Mind Franco Orsucci, 2002 Applies complexity theory to cognitive science and the result is a transformation of this field Tools and Techniques of Leadership and Management Ralph D. Stacey, 2012 This book undertakes a critical exploration of the tools and techniques of leadership and management favoured by many of today's books It contests the claims that the tools and techniques are based on evidence and explains why human activities of leading and managing are simply not amenable to scientific proof and consequently why long term futures of organizations are unpredictable Cognitive Science Harald Maurer, 2021-07-08 The Mind and Brain are usually considered as one and the same nonlinear complex dynamical system in which information processing can be described with vector and tensor transformations and with attractors in multidimensional state spaces Thus an internal neurocognitive representation concept consists of a dynamical process which filters out statistical prototypes from the sensorial information in terms of coherent and adaptive n dimensional vector fields These prototypes serve as a basis for dynamic probabilistic predictions or probabilistic hypotheses on prospective new data see the recently introduced approach of predictive coding in neurophilosophy Furthermore the phenomenon of sensory and language cognition would thus be based on a multitude of self regulatory complex dynamics of synchronous self organization mechanisms in other words an emergent flux equilibrium process steady state of the total collective and coherent neural activity resulting from the oscillatory actions of neuronal assemblies In perception it is shown how sensory object informations like the object color or the object form can be dynamically related together or can be integrated to a neurally based representation of this perceptual object by means of a synchronization mechanism feature binding In language processing it is shown how semantic concepts and syntactic roles can be dynamically related together or can be integrated to neurally based systematic and compositional connectionist representations by means of a synchronization mechanism variable binding solving the Fodor Pylyshyn Challenge Since the systemtheoretical connectionism has succeeded in modeling the sensory objects in perception as well as systematic and compositional representations in language processing with this vector and oscillation based representation format a new convincing theory of neurocognition has been developed which bridges the neuronal and the cognitive analysis level The book describes how elementary neuronal information is combined in perception and language so it becomes clear how the brain processes this information to enable basic cognitive performance of the humans Interactive World, Interactive God Carol Rausch Albright, John R. Albright, Mladen Turk, 2017-11-06

Since the dawn of science ideas about the relation between science and religion have always depended on what else is going on in a society During the twentieth century daily life changed dramatically Technology revolutionized transportation agriculture communications and housework People came to rely on scientific predictability in their technology Many wondered whether God s supposed actions were consistent with scientific knowledge The twenty first century is bringing new scientific research capabilities They are revealing that scientific results are not totally predictable after all Certain types of interaction lead to outcomes that are unpredictable in principle These in turn may lead to a whole new range of potential interactions They do not rule out the reality of a dynamic God who can act in the world without breaking the known principles of science God may in fact work with the way things really are Human experience of God may accurately reflect this reality Interactive World Interactive God illustrates such new understandings in religion and science by describing recent developments in a wide range of sciences and providing theological commentary The book is written for intelligent readers who may not be specialized in science but who are looking for ways to understand divine action in today s world Flux: The Complexity Of Changing Minds Franco F Orsucci, 2025-04-02

How do emotions shape who we are What drives the dance between order and disorder in human relationships This groundbreaking work unveils the profound science behind human dynamics where biology meets behavior and complexity creates meaning Discover how Drawing from cutting edge research in molecular biology neuroscience and psychology this book illuminates how our bodies emotions and relationships form an intricate living network For clinical scientists healthcare professionals neuroscientists biophysicists social researchers organizational leaders and anyone intrigued by the science of human connection and change Emotion in Language Ulrike M. Lüdtke, 2015-12-16 The miracle of children s language development and the joy of expressive language on the one hand and the vulnerability of language and the sorrow and grief caused by its distortion or even loss in people with aphasia or dementia on the other hand show us the inseparability of emotion and language in its extremes Although the emotional turn promised a paradigmatic shift from a rationalistic towards an emotion integrating conceptualization of language hardly any interdisciplinary research has focused on the interplay between emotion and language The present book covers the wide range of work on Emotion in Language with contributions from numerous disciplines in the three areas of Theory Research and Application With contributions both from well known pioneers in the area of this topic as well as from young scientists the book offers a broad range of perspectives from linguistics and language development to neurology psychology and developmental neuropsychology and to the fields of philosophy and phenomenology

Meaning Of Life And The Universe: Transforming Mae-wan Ho, 2017-01-24 The scope of this extraordinary selection of essays distilled from nearly a thousand works that the author has written is literally the entire universe and universe of knowledge It charts the author's quest for the meaning of life faced with a dominant knowledge system she regards as incoherent meaningless and often acting against people and planet She shows how contemporary scientific findings across all disciplines already provide an authentic knowledge system that's coherent with life and the universe The aim is to transform science thoroughly from inspiration to research to applications that work for people and planet This book is simply unique in its scope and content There is no equivalent The author surveys and explains contemporary science in depth ranging over philosophy anthropology quantum physics and chemistry neurobiology psychology genetics and epigenetics cosmology art humanities and mathematics It presents a truly holistic view of nature with profound implications for life in the social political and personal realm
