Still Teaching Ourselves:

I Learn Better by Teaching Myself Agnes Leistico, 1997 The Reciprocating Self Jack O. Balswick, Pamela Ebstyne King, Kevin S. Reimer, 2005-04-28 On the basis of a theologically grounded understanding of the nature of persons and the self Jack O Balswick Pamela Ebstyne King and Kevin S Reimer present a model of human development that ranges across all of life's stages infancy childhood adolescence young adulthood middle adulthood elder adulthood They do this by drawing on a biblical model of relationality where the created goal or purpose of human development is to become a reciprocating self fully and securely related to others and to God Along the way they provide a context for understanding individual development issues concerns tensions worries or crises encountered by the self in the context of change Awareness of these issues is most pronounced at developmental transitional points learning to talk and walk beginning to eat unassisted going to school developing secondary sexual physical features leaving home obtaining full time employment becoming engaged and then married having a child for the first time parenting an adolescent watching children move away from home retiring experiencing decline in physical and mental health and finally facing imminent death Throughout Balswick King and Reimer contend that since God has created human beings for relationship to be a self in reciprocating relationships is of major importance in negotiating these developmental issues Critically engaging social science research and theory The Reciprocating Self offers an integrated approach that provides insight helpful to college and seminary students as well as those serving in the helping professions Those preparing for or currently engaged in Christian ministry will be especially rewarded by the in depth discussion of the implications for moral and faith development nurtured in the context of the life of the church Making a Difference in Teacher Education Through Self-Study Clare Kosnik, Clive Beck, Anne R. generative professional applications of self study methodology for and beyond teacher education providing implications and recommendations for practitioners on a global level Advancing Social Studies Education through Self-Study Methodology Alicia R. Crowe,2010-06-25 Advancing Social Studies Education through Self Study Methodology provides a collection of works that highlights ways in which self study of teaching and teacher education practices can advance conversations and knowledge in social studies education Some of the pieces chosen for this book will provide theoretical connections between the two fields e g how values and principles important to both fields work together are similar and can help each field expand Others will provide specific examples of self studies that focus on social studies specific concepts The book provides a strong and clear introduction of self study to the field of social studies education as well as an argument for its use to further understand social studies teaching and teacher education It also provides the self study community with an example of how self study can be used to look at content specific aspects of teaching and teacher education What We Still Don't Know about Teaching Race Sherick A. Hughes,2005 Features thirteen essays on the topic of teaching race a subject of importance for those in training to become teachers These essays aim to confront the discourse and practices of teaching about race at various levels of contemporary learning settings in the United States Teaching Yourself Social Theory David Harris,2002-12-13 Social theory is a very difficult subject to teach and it is one that students generally find hard to get to grips with Teaching Yourself Social Theory offers a highly original and comprehensive resource that will be welcomed by students and teachers alike Barry Smart University of Portsmouth I have no hesitation in recommending Harris text to students and teachers of social theory Sociology This refreshing and accessible text demonstrates how social theory can be made into an intelligible discourse that touches upon key aspects of everyday life The abstraction and formalism of much contemporary social theory is criticized as unnecessarily scholastic for the beginner The author maintains that the main problems in studying the subject are not intrinsic to social theory but derive from how the subject is taught as a university discipline This lively book uses non specialist terms to introduce more complex themes and incorporates a Website with questions and reading guides to some of the classic works Intercultural Self-Defence Fred Dervin,2025-03-11 Based on the author s 25 years of experience in researching and teaching interculturality Intercultural Self Defence A Resource Book for Students Teachers and Researchers is a compelling exploration of the subtle forces that shape Intercultural Communication Education and Research ICER The Resource Book delves into the adversaries lurking within ICER indoctrination intellectual inertia and linguistic indifference and unveils how they can stifle genuine understanding and growth Each chapter acts as a critical lens scrutinising the boundaries between education and indoctrination the stagnation of thought and the perils of linguistic complacency The author illustrates the impact of these forces on interculturality and the ethical implications they carry The book contains a series of activities designed to encourage creative self reflection and fosters a deeper understanding of the interplay between language power and interculturality But it is more than a resource It is a manifesto for continuous learning active engagement and the pursuit of a more inclusive and dynamic field of intercultural communication education and scholarship Advocating a vigilant and self reflexive approach the book will serve as a critical guide for students teachers and researchers specialising in intercultural research and education to navigate the complexities of interculturality Recovering the Self Victor Jeleniewski Seidler, 2013-01-11 This important book seeks to place questions of morality and justice at the heart of social theory By exploring the works of Marx Durkheim and Weber it shows the hidden complexities of a modernity too often identified with a unified vision of the rational self later to fall apart into fragments within postmodernity Reinstating the body and emotional life Seidler sets new terms for respect and equality showing ways the self is undermined in its sense of self worth and adequacy through the workings of relationships of power and subordination Drawing upon feminism and Critical Theory to question the allegedly straightforward opposition between essentialism and social constructionism Seidler places the issues of morality right into the centre of the self problem Through reinstating connections between the self and the historical adventures of socialism feminism masculinity ethnicity and autobiographically Jewish identity he shows the intimate affinity between these different categories of experience Identities are not freely chosen but involve a coming to terms with histories of class race and gender Critical of postmodern theories in which anything goes and in which everything you see is relative this book is concerned with the reassertion of value and recovering a viable tradition in which we can again explore issues of freedom and social justice Our discussions have turned increasingly esoteric as they have sheltered in an intellectual cage which has been difficult to enter This book seeks to open up the cage and re establish the suspended conversation between social theory and the concerns of everyday life

Understanding the Self and Others Gordon Sammut, Paul Daanen, Fathali M. Moghaddam, 2013 How do we as human beings come to understand ourselves and others around us Bringing together a number of cutting edge researchers and practitioners in psychology and related fields this diverse collection of thirteen papers draws on psychology sociology philosophy linguistics communications and anthropology to explore how human beings effectively come to understand and interact with others This volume is organised in three main sections to explore some of the key conceptual issues discuss the cognitive processes involved in intersubjectivity and interobjectivity and examine human relations at the level of collective processes Inheriting Stanley Cavell David LaRocca, 2020-06-25 Some of the people who knew Stanley Cavell best or know his work most intimately are gathered in Inheriting Stanley Cavell to lend critical insight into the once and future legacy of this American titan of thought Former students colleagues long time friends as well as distant admirers explore moments when their personal experiences of Cavell's singular philosophical and literary illuminations have as he put it risen to the level of philosophical significance Many of the memories dreams and reflections on offer in this volume carry with them a welcome register of the autobiographical expressing much as Cavell did through his own writing how the personal can become philosophical and thus provide a robust mode for the making of meaning and the clarifying of the human condition

Here in varied styles and through a range of dynamic content authors engage the lingering question of inheriting philosophy in whatever form it might take and what it means to think about inheritance and enact it A Doctrine of Creative

Education Traumear,2018-12-21 This is a comprehensive work setting forth in detail how creative education can operate Described and observed in practice are the skills of the educator of both children and adults Emphasis is placed on human nature as inwardly original and outwardly communicable and on the ability of the teacher to deal with the pupils disabilities and inabilities as initially transferred to himself Comparison is drawn with standard and artistic education The Star ,1928
