The Conversion Equation is a no-nonsense guide for business owners to ensure their business gets more prospects, closes more sales, and makes more money immediately. Times have moved on, yet businesses haven't changed their sales and marketing. Buyers are more knowledgeable, and the traditional lead generation techniques of direct mail, exhibitions, telemarketing are no longer effective. The days of persuasion selling are gone, while 61% of business owners say lead generation is their top challenge. Most businesses are doing marketing all wrong and wasting valuable time spending hard-earned money and using up limited energy on marketing that is not proven and does not work. In The Conversion Equation, best-selling author Dr. Terri Levine shares a proven process that has grown 8 multi-million dollar businesses for her personally and has helped more than 6,000 business owners worldwide. She shows what is being done wrong in marketing and how to quickly shift to what works that is little known by almost all business owners. The Conversion Equation provides a process that can grow any business in any environment or situation. The United States has a jobs problem, not enough well-paying jobs to go around and not enough clear pathways leading to them. Skill development is critical for addressing this employment crisis, but there are many unresolved questions about who has skill, how it is attained, and whose responsibility it is to build skills over time. In this book, Nichola Lowe tells the stories of pioneering workforce intermediaries, nonprofits, unions, community colleges that harness this ambiguity around skill to extend economic opportunity to workers at the bottom of the labor market. Skill development confers shared value to both workers and employers because it lies at the intersection of their respective interests Connecting skill to economic inequality Lowe calls for solutions that push employers to accept greater responsibility for skill development She examines real world examples of workplace intermediaries throughout the United States exploring in detail the work of manufacturing focused organizations in Chicago and Milwaukee and a network of community colleges in North Carolina that coordinates training for biopharmaceutical manufacturers As workforce intermediaries help employers reinterpret skill they also convince them to implement inclusive work based systems that extend family sustaining wages and better working conditions across the entire workforce With renewed policy emphasis on skill development these opportunity rich solutions can be further expanded ensuring workers across the entire educational spectrum contribute skills that drive innovation forward and share the gains they generate for the twenty first century workplace
