Toxic War Peter Sills,2014-02-15 The war in Vietnam spanning more than twenty years was one of the most divisive conflicts ever to envelop the United States and its complexity and consequences did not end with the fall of Saigon in 1975 As Peter Sills demonstrates in Toxic War veterans faced a new enemy beyond post traumatic stress disorder or debilitating battle injuries Many of them faced a new more pernicious slow killing enemy the cancerous effects of Agent Orange Originally introduced by Dow and other chemical companies as a herbicide in the United States and adopted by the military as a method of deforesting the war zone of Vietnam in order to deny the enemy cover Agent Orange also found its way into the systems of numerous active duty soldiers Sills argues that manufacturers understood the dangers of this compound and did nothing to protect American soldiers Toxic War takes the reader behind the scenes into the halls of political power and industry where the debates about the use of Agent Orange and its potential side effects raged In the end the only way these veterans could seek justice was in the court of law and public opinion Unprecedented in its access to legal medical and government documentation as well as to the personal testimonies of veterans Toxic War endeavors to explore all sides of this epic battle

The Utility of Proximity-Based Herbicide Exposure Assessment in Epidemiologic Studies of Vietnam Veterans Institute of Medicine, Board on Military and Veterans Health, Committee on Making Best Use of the Agent Orange Exposure Reconstruction Model, 2008-04-15 A fundamental challenge in past studies evaluating whether health problems experienced by Vietnam veterans might be linked to wartime use of Agent Orange or other herbicides has been a lack of information about the veterans level of exposure to these herbicides To address that problem researchers developed a model to assess the opportunity for herbicide exposure among these veterans The Utility of Proximity Based Herbicide Exposure Assessment in Epidemiologic Studies of Vietnam Veterans presents the conclusions and recommendations of an Institute of Medicine committee IOM that was convened to provide guidance to the Department of Veterans Affairs VA about the best use of a model to characterize exposure to the troops based on their proximity to herbicide spraying in Vietnam This book's assessment is guided by four primary considerations to be clear about what the assessment model does and does not claim to do to gain understanding of the strengths and limitations of data on herbicide spraying troop locations and health outcomes to consider whether the model locates spraying and troops accurately to consider the potential contributions and pitfalls of using it in epidemiologic studies Of particular interest in these deliberations were the degree to which exposure classification might be improved if the model were to be used and the appropriate interpretation of the results of any such studies In light of the questions that remain concerning herbicide exposure and health among Vietnam veterans and the array of evidence that has thus far been brought to bear on that issue The Utility of Proximity Based Herbicide Exposure Assessment in Epidemiologic Studies of Vietnam Veterans concludes that the application of this model offers a constructive approach to extending knowledge about the effects of herbicides on the health of these veterans and merits the initial steps recommended in our report
