Early African Caribbean Newspapers as Archipelagic Media in the Emancipation Age Johanna Seibert, 2022-11-21 Early African Caribbean Newspapers as Archipelagic Media in the Emancipation Age shows how two Black edited periodical publications in the early decades of the nineteenth century worked towards emancipation through medium specific interventions across material and immaterial lines More concretely this book proposes an archipelagic framework for understanding the emancipatory struggles of the Antigua Weekly Register in St John's and the Jamaica Watchman in Kingston Complicating the prevalent narrative about the Register and the Watchman as organs of the free people of color this book continues to explore the heterogeneity and evolution of Black newspaper print on the liberal spectrum As such Early African Caribbean Newspapers makes the case that the Register and the Watchman participated in shaping the contemporary communication market in the Caribbean To do so this study engages deeply with both the textuality and materiality of the newspaper and presents fresh visual material

Retelling the Caribbean Laura Ekberg, 2025-09-26 Retelling the Caribbean examines heterolingualism in Anglophone Caribbean novels and their Finnish translations Heterolingualism such as various types of code switching is utilised by many Caribbean authors to represent the linguistic multiplicity of Caribbean cultures Switching between different languages is a natural part of communication in Caribbean communities Consequently issues of language and cultural representation have become an integral part of the Caribbean literary tradition This study is located at an intersection between the notion of intercultural translation employed in Postcolonial Studies and the notion of interlingual translation that is at the centre of Translation Studies examining both the original novels and their Finnish translations as forms of translation The book maps the strategies used by the Finnish translators of these heterolingual texts comparing them to the strategies used by the authors in the representation of Caribbean language and culture in the original literary works Through textual analysis of works spanning five decades of translated Anglophone Caribbean fiction in Finnish as well as translator interviews the book sheds light on some of the central issues related to cultural representation in the translation of heterolingual literary works
