Stephoe And Son Cuckoo In The Nest:

The Steptoe and Son Encyclopedia Brian Carver, 2024-05-30 Steptoe and Son is a classic British sitcom that ran on the BBC between 1962-74. The series has two iconic characters: Albert Steptoe and his rag and bone man son Harold Wildred Brambell as Albert and Harry H Corbett as Harold. Both give wonderful performances in the series. As well as being a great comedy, Steptoe and Son has many dramatic elements and social commentary relating to the relationship between father and son, changes in society, their working class existence, and their rather old-fashioned rag and bone trade. Find out more about this iconic series in this Encyclopedia. The Best of Steptoe and Son Ray Galton, Alan Simpson, 1988 The Guinness Book of Classic British TV Paul Cornell, Martin Day, Keith Topping, 1996 1000 Famous Horses Fact & Fictional Throughout the Ages FJH Glover, 2011-04-05 There is no available information at this time. Through Time Andrew Cartmel, 2005-12-20 The quirky British television series Doctor Who is a classic both of science fiction and television drama. First broadcast in 1963, it has remained an influential TV presence ever since with an eagerly anticipated new series airing in 2005. As a vehicle for satire, social commentary, or sheer fantasy adventure, Doctor Who is unparalleled. It was a show created for children but it was immediately usurped by adults. Arriving at a time of upheaval in the popular arts in Britain, Doctor Who was born into a television tradition influenced by the TV plays of Dennis Potter, the cult television drama The Prisoner, the James Bond films, and Stanley Kubrick's science fiction triptych Dr Strangelove. 2001 A Space Odyssey and A Clockwork Orange. A British fantasy adventure that has unfolded across television screens over decades in the tradition of Lewis Carroll, Conan Doyle, and HG Wells, the strength of Doctor Who has always been its writers and the ideas they nurtured. In this new history of the show, Andrew Cartmel, who was the script editor on Doctor Who from 1987 to 1990, looks into its social and cultural impact, providing a fascinating read for committed and casual fans alike. Radio Times, 1972 Censoring the 1970s Sian Barber, 2011-09-22 This book explores the work of the British Board of Film Censors in the 1970s. Throughout the decade, this unelected organisation set standards of acceptability and determined what could and what could not be shown on British cinema screens. Controversial texts like A Clockwork Orange (1971), Straw Dogs (1971), The Devils (1971), and Life of Brian (1979) have been used to draw attention to the way in which the BBFC operated in the 1970s. While it is true to say that these films encountered major classification problems, what of the hundreds of other films being classified at the same time? Did all films struggle with the British censors in this period, and can these famous examples be fitted into broader patterns of censorship policy and practice? In studying over 250 film files from the BBFC archive, this work reveals how 1970s films such as Vampire Circus (1971), Confessions of a Window Cleaner (1974), and Carry on Emmannuelle (1978) also ran into trouble with the film censor. This work explores the complex process of negotiation and compromise which affected all film submissions in the 1970s and the way in which the BBFC actively and often sympathetically negotiated with film directors, producers, and distributors to assign the correct category to each film. The lack of any defined formal censorship policy in this period allowed the BBFC to work alongside the film industry and push cultural social and artistic boundaries however it also left the Board open to accusations of favouritism subjectivity and personal bias This work is not simply a study of controversial films and contentious issues but rather engages with wider issues of changing permission legal struggles the influence of the media and the legislative and governmental controls which both helped and hindered the BBFC in this important post war decade The focus on historical and archival research offers a great deal to scholars from associated disciplines including history social policy media and communications and politics
