Pakistan Musa Khan Jalalzai, 2018-07-09 Pakistan is teetering on the brink The country s staggering and lurching foreign policy has failed to evolve with changing political and geopolitical developments The army and ISI lack coherent and long term national security approach The prolixity of the Afghan war and participation of Pakistan s jihadist black water in it has blighted its social and political stratification Its domestic policies are in a grief stricken state The two states Islamic Republic and Military Establishment have adopted different foreign domestic and economic policies and view neighbouring states with different glasses The gradual radicalization of Pakistan army and its links with worldwide terrorist organizations over the last 70 years poses a grave danger to the country s nuclear installations in terms of insider attacks The spectrum of rogue and radicalized elements range from military officers to employees of Strategic Planning Division and officers of nuclear force These aspects have been elaborated by the author in this book The book can be an essential reading for every reader interested in Pakistan s nuclear program and its threat of falling into hands of rogue elements

Microdevelopment Nira Granott, Jim Parziale, 2002-05-09 Microdevelopment is the process of change in abilities knowledge and understanding during short time spans This book presents a new process orientated view of development and learning based on recent innovations in psychology research. Instead of characterising abilities at different ages, researchers investigate processes of development and learning that evolve through time and explain what enables progress in them. Four themes are highlighted: variability; mechanisms that create transitions to higher levels of knowledge; interrelations between changes in the short term scale of microdevelopment and the crucial effect of context; Learning and development are analysed in and out of school in the individual's activities and through social interaction in relation to simple and complex problems and in everyday behaviour and novel tasks. With contributions from the foremost researchers in the field, Microdevelopment will be essential reading for all interested in cognitive and developmental science. Looking for

Lost Treasure Gregory N. Peters, 2014. Describes famous treasure hunts and the tricks and tools treasure hunters use to find treasure. War and welfare Barbara Hatley, 2013-07-19. During the Second World War, some 250,000 British servicemen were taken captive by either the Axis powers or the Japanese. As a result of this, their wives and families became completely dependent on the military and civil authorities. This book examines the experiences of the millions of service dependents created by total war. The book then focuses on the most disadvantaged elements of this group: the wives, children and dependents of men taken prisoner, and the changes brought about by the exigencies of total war. Further chapters reflect on how these families organised to lobby government and the strategies they adopted to circumvent apparent bureaucratic ineptitude and misinformation. This book is essential reading for both academic and general readers interested in the British Home Front during the Second World War. A Living Tradition David Andrew Pitt, Stefanos Alexopoulos, Christian McConnell, 2012. Seeking to bridge the distance between scholarship and praxis to be accessible to both pastoral ministers and academic theologians, this volume is organized according to three categories: liturgical year, Christian initiation and Eucharist. Within these categories, the contributors are especially attentive to three important aspects of liturgical history: the role that important figures in liturgical history played as liturgical pastors; how liturgical history has been used in shaping contemporary liturgical rites and prayers; how liturgical history informs contemporary understandings and beliefs. Ultimately, the book pays tribute to Maxwell Johnson's contributions to the life of the church by exploring ways that the study of liturgical history might help the church remain faithful to God and to the sacramental worldview that continues to define and characterize classic Christianity. Working in the Killing Fields Howard Ball, 2015-04-15. While the specifics of individual wars vary, they share a common epilogue: the task of finding and identifying the disappeared. The Bosnian war of the early 1990s, which destroyed the sovereign state of Yugoslavia, is no exception. In Working in the Killing Fields, Howard Ball focuses on recent developments in the technology of forensic science and on the work of forensic professionals in Bosnia following that conflict. Ball balances the examination of complex features of new forensic technology with insights into the lives of the men and women from around the globe who are tasked with finding and excavating bodies and conducting pathological examinations. Having found the disappeared, however, these same pathologists must then also explain the cause of death to international court criminal prosecutors and surviving families of the victims Ball considers the physical dangers these professionals regularly confront while performing their site excavations as well as the emotional pain including post traumatic stress disorder they contend with while in Bosnia and after they leave the killing fields Working in the Killing Fields integrates discussion of cutting edge forensic technology into a wider view of what these searches mean the damage they do to people and the healing and good they bring to those in search of answers Even though the Balkan wars took place two decades ago the fields where so many men women and children died still have gruesome and disturbing stories to tell Ball puts the spotlight on the forensic professionals tasked with telling that story and on what their work means to them as individuals and to the wider world s understanding of genocide and war Intersections of Harm Laura

Halperin,2015-07-13 In this innovative new study Laura Halperin examines literary representations of harm inflicted on Latinas minds and bodies and on the places Latinas inhabit but she also explores how hope can be found amid so much harm Analyzing contemporary memoirs and novels by Irene Vilar Loida Maritza P rez Ana Castillo Cristina Garc a and Julia Alvarez she argues that the individual harm experienced by Latinas needs to be understood in relation to the collective histories of aggression against their communities Intersections of Harm is more than just a nuanced examination of the intersections among race ethnicity class gender and sexuality It also explores the intersections of deviance and defiance individual and collective and mind body and place Halperin proposes that ironically the harmful ascriptions of Latina deviance are tied to the hopeful expressions of Latina defiance While the Latina protagonists defiance feeds into the labels of deviance imposed on them it also fuels the protagonists ability to resist such harmful treatment In this analysis Halperin broadens the parameters of literary studies of female madness as she compels us to shift our understanding of where madness lies She insists that the madness readily attributed to individual Latinas is entwined with the madness of institutional structures of oppression and she maintains that psychological harm is bound together with physical and geopolitical harm In her pan Latina study Halperin shows how each writer s work emerges from a unique set of locales and histories but she also traces a network of connections among them Bringing together concepts from feminism postcolonialism illness studies and ecocriticism Intersections of Harm opens up exciting new avenues for Latina o studies Pahlavi Texts Edward William
