The Guns Of Palembang:

The Guns of Palembang Peter McCurtin, 1978 Sumatra 1944-45 Angus Konstam, 2024-10-24 The first history of how the aircraft of the British Pacific Fleet shattered Japanese oilfields in Sumatra starving Japan of oil and proving how Anglo American navies could fight together With the war in Europe in its final stages by 1944 the Royal Navy was able to put together a major force to join the campaign against Japan The British Pacific Fleet was arguably the most powerful fleet the Royal Navy has ever sent into action In this book renowned naval historian Angus Konstam explores how the first target of British naval power in the Pacific would be the strategically vital oil fields in Japanese occupied Sumatra part of the Dutch East Indies Between April 1944 and January 1945 the task force struck oil fields and production centres Japanese airfields naval facilities and troop concentrations Initially working alongside US Navy carriers and learning their ruthlessly effective fast carrier doctrine the British would end the Sumatra campaign with a powerful fleet of ten carriers of their own Packed with dramatic artwork maps 3D diagrams and archive photos this is the first history of the Sumatra raids a prime example of how naval air power could achieve key strategic ends They also proved that the Allied navies could fight successfully alongside one another paving the way for the BPF's participation in the capture of Okinawa Battle for Palembang Terence Kelly, 1985 Rikugun Leland Ness, 2014-12-19 Rikugun Guide to Japanese Ground Forces 1937-1945 is the first nuts and bolts handbook to utilize both the voluminous raw allied intelligence documents and postwar Japanese documentation as primary sources This second volume covers the armament of the ground forces It takes advantage not only of postwar Japanese research but also the extensive technical intelligence efforts of the Allies near the end of the war and the postwar investigations that have heretofore generally been ignored to provide a complete examination of wartime Japanese armament The book is divided into twenty three sections covering all categories including not only the standard arms such as machine guns and coast artillery but also more esoteric items such as bridging chemical weapons and assault equipment Each section provides both production and technical data as well as a discussion of the unique characteristics of each weapon and its place in the force structure accompanied by over 300 photographs and numerous data tables A trip to sea, from 1810 to 1815 George Miller, 1854 The Guns of Palembang Peter McCurtin, 1982-03-01 The Netherlands East Indies Campaign 1941-42 Marc Lohnstein, 2021-06-24 A compact study of one of the less well known campaigns of the Pacific War which featured complex Japanese and Allied operations and included the first use of airborne troops in the war Imperial Japan's campaigns of conquest in late 1941 early 1942 were launched in order to achieve self sufficiency for the Japanese people chiefly in the precious commodity of oil The Netherlands or Dutch East Indies formed one of Japan's primary targets on account of its abundant rubber plantations and oilfields The Japanese despatched an enormous naval task force to support the amphibious landings over the vast terrain of the Netherlands East Indies The combined arms offensive was divided into three groups western centre and eastern The isolated airfields and oilfields were however picked off one by one
