Morris examines the first and only extended war between two communist regimes China and the World since 1945 Chi-kwan Mark, 2025-04-02 Now in its second edition China and the World since 1945 offers an accessible introduction to China's foreign policy and diplomatic history across a broad chronology After the century of humiliation China was in constant search of a new identity on the world stage which significantly changed the way the nation defined itself and its role in the world The book traces developments in China's relations with the two superpowers Asian neighbours Third World countries and European powers examining China's role in modern globalization and the international community It also considers the influence of domestic politics and ideology on China's international relations Fully revised and updated with the latest scholarship the second edition includes a new chapter on China's foreign relations under Xi Jinping's administration including the reassertion of China as a Communist state identification with the Global South and the New Cold War with the United States as both powers grapple for global influence By examining the rise of China from a long term historical perspective this concise yet comprehensive study will be essential to scholars and students of Chinese history and contemporary international relations Chinese Policy Toward Indonesia, 1949-1967 David Mozingo, 2007 China's alliance with Indonesia in the mid sixties appeared to be a spectacular achievement of diplomatic strategy yet it became a major foreign policy disaster for China To explore this turn about Professor Mozingo offers a persuasive analysis of the competing forces that shaped Beijing's policy towards Jakarta and the factors that ultimately led to its downfall He explains how and why Chinese policy in Indonesia shifted dramatically from hostility to peaceful coexistence and back again to hostility Although considerations of global strategy predominantly influenced the design and execution of that policy he writes the decisive factor affecting the outcome of the Sino Indonesian relationship consistently proved to be the domestic political processes in Indonesia over which Beijing had little or no control In the end China was unable to resolve the contradiction between considerations of realpolitik and of its own revolutionary ethos He argues that this same contradiction is responsible for the highly ambivalent attitude that Beijing has displayed in its relations with other non communist Asian countries since 1949 Through this informed analysis of the Sino Indonesian relationship now brought back to life as a member of Equinox Publishing's Classic Indonesia series Professor Mozingo has clarified the larger pattern of China's evolving diplomatic strategy in the Third World before the Cultural Revolution DAVID MOZINGO is Professor of Government and Director International Relations of East Asia Project at Cornell University A graduate of the University of California Los Angeles he received his MA and PhD degrees there He was formerly a staff member of the Rand Corporation and Director China Japan Program at Cornell University Parameters, 1992 Sino-Soviet Relations, 1964-65 William E. Griffith, 1967 Widener Library Shelflist: China, Japan, and Korea Harvard University. patrons resources and the agency of client countries this book accentuates that the costs and uncertainty require China to be a wary patron who must adjust its patronage priorities in order to deal with geopolitical competition Using China s patronage delivery to North Vietnam during the fierce and geopolitically competitive period of the Vietnam War the book underscores that neighboring countries domestic political dynamics which are out of Beijing s control drive costs and uncertainty thus constraining Beijing s choices With a wealth of historical materials including minutes of Chinese decision makers conversations with foreign counterparts selections of Chinese leaders manuscripts chronologies of their diplomatic economic and military activities senior Chinese officials memoirs and biographies and declassified Chinese official documents this book will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese politics history and international relations
