Subsidies And Countervailing Measures Critical Issues For The Uruguay Round:

WTO Disciplines on Subsidies and Countervailing Measures Dominic Coppens, 2014-05-22 Does the WTO leave appropriate policy space to its Members to pursue legitimate objectives such as the economic development of developing countries the conversion to a greener economy or recovery in times of a global economic downturn This legal and normative analysis of the WTO rules on subsidies and countervailing measures sheds light on why governments resort to subsidization and by tracing the historical origins of the SCM Agreement and the Agreement on Agriculture on why they have been willing to gradually confine their policy space This sets the stage for a systematic and comprehensive legal analysis of both agreements which integrates the vast amount of case law and proposals tabled in the Doha round A separate case study explores the complex rules on export credit support and the book closes with an in depth normative assessment of these WTO rules on subsidies and countervailing measures

Rao,2023-10-20 It is a known fact that David Ricardo was the first to clearly articulate the benefits of free trade If one looks at that the economists entrepreneurs and politician vigorously stressing the gains of free trade one would expect free trade to flourish in international trade without any barriers but protectionism in the form of subsidies still persists. The volume of international trade and foreign investment has increased substantially since the end of World War II but so has protection. All countries practice some type of protectionism in the form of tariffs, subsidies and more generally non tariff barriers (NTBs). However, governments world over have in the last 20 years signaled they supported the free trade. But the failure for an agreement at the WTO meetings is a proof to the resilience of the protection and the ability of the special interests to get what they want out of their governments.

The Anti-Dumping Agreement and Developing Countries Aradhna Aggarwal, 2006-10-20. In the era of globalization trade policy has become a key development tool and expanding exports a major policy objective for developing countries. However, pressures for protectionism are threatening to reverse the gains. The surge of anti dumping practices in the 1990s in many countries have triggered an intense debate on the anti dumping agreement and its implementation. This volume analyses the importance of anti dumping from a developing country's perspective. The author investigates the use of anti dumping in a comparative framework and reviews the genesis and evolution of the Agreement and its legal provisions. She further discusses the economic and non economic justifications of anti dumping use and empirically analyses the macro economic factors motivating countries to use anti dumping. Finally, she examines the wide ranging proposals to reform the WTO anti dumping code. The analysis brings out a bias against developing countries and stresses the need for fundamental reform of current anti dumping rules. The author also reflects on plausible approaches to refine existing provisions and explores the possibility of reform by including a Public Interest Test. She suggests updating the special and differential treatment provisions to remedy existing imbalances.
