The Hunterian Lectures In Comparative Anatomy:

Hunterian Lectures in Comparative Anatomy, May-June, 1837 Richard Owen, 1992 The Hunterian Lectures in Comparative Anatomy, May and June 1837 Richard Owen, 1992-08-15 Sir Richard Owen 1804 1892 comparative anatomist colleague and later antagonist of Darwin and head of the British Museum of Natural History was a major figure in Victorian science Yet historians of science have found Owen a difficult subject in part because he chose not to expound his views in a major theoretical work but rather presented them through annual lectures at the Royal College of Surgeons from 1837 to 1856 Nevertheless Owen's views on the nature of life the relations of form and function the meaning of fossils and the development of species gave his contemporaries such as Lyell Grant Huxley Whewell and Darwin a set of positions with which they could agree or disagree while developing their own views Now for the first time modern readers have access to the opening series of Owen's Hunterian Lectures in which he set out the larger framework of the theoretical reflections that occupied him during the next nineteen years Presented to the public in the two months before Darwin began his first notebook on the species question these lectures reveal the nature of the synthesis of French German and British biology taking place in metropolitan London in this crucial period in nineteenth century life science Phillip Reid Sloan has transcribed and edited the seven surviving lectures and has written an introduction and commentary situating the work in the context of Owen's life and the scientific and intellectual life of the time Sloan pays particular attention to Owen's early relations to the German scientific and philosophical tradition and in this respect contributes to an understanding of the relations between science and British Romanticism In the lectures Owen surveys the history of comparative anatomy up to his time and develops his views on the nature of life species duration physiological function and the relation between embryology and classification One can see the degree to which transcendental anatomy and the views of Von Baer Johannes Müller E G St Hilaire and Cuvier were current in London in the late 1830s from back cover Hunterian Lectures in Comparative Anatomy, May-June, 1837 Richard Owen, 1992-12-01 Lectures on Comparative Anatomy Sir Everard Home, 1814 Lectures on Comparative Anatomy, in which are Explained the Preparations in the Hunterian Collection Home, 1823 Lectures on Comparative Anatomy, in which are Explained the Preparations in the Hunterian Collection, Illustr. by Engravings Sir Everard Home, 1814 Lectures on Comparative Anatomy Everard Home, 1814 Lectures on Comparative Anatomy, in which are Explained the Preparations in the Hunterian Collection Everard Home, 1828 Lectures on Comparative Anatomy, 2020-01-24 Lectures on the Comparative Anatomy and Physiology of the Invertebrate Animals Richard Owen, 2017-12 Excerpt from Lectures on the Comparative Anatomy and Physiology of the Invertebrate Animals Delivered at the Royal College of Surgeons There are doubtless some now present who have not before attended the Hunterian lectures on Comparative Anatomy which are appointed to be annually delivered in this theatre I may therefore commence by stating the prescribed extent and subject of these lectures They are defined in the second clause of the trust deed which expresses the conditions on which the Hunterian Collection purchased by Parliament was transferred to the Royal College of Surgeons as follows viz That one course of lectures not less than twenty four in number on Comparative Anatomy illustrated by the Preparations shall be given each year by some member of the College When I was honoured by the Council in 1837 with this arduous and responsible office it seemed to me that the first obligation upon the professor was to combine with the information to be imparted on the science of Comparative Anatomy an adequate demonstration of the nature and extent of the Hunterian Physiological Collection and thus to Offer a due tribute to the scientific labours and discoveries of its Founder About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
