Subordinate Marginal Groups In Early I:

Capturing Caste in Law Annapurna Waughray, 2022-05-11 This book is about the legal regulation of caste discrimination. It highlights the difficulty of capturing caste in international and domestic law and suggests solutions. Its aim is to contribute to the task of understanding how to secure effective legal protection from and prevention of discrimination on grounds of caste and why this is important and necessary. It does this by examining the legal conceptualization and regulation of caste as a social category and as a ground of discrimination in international law and in two national jurisdictions, India and the UK, identifying their complexities, strengths, limitations, and potential. Adopting a broadly chronological approach, the book aims to present an account of the role of law in the construction of caste inequality and discrimination and the subsequent legal efforts to dismantle it. The book will be of value to lawyers and non-lawyers, academics and students of human rights, international law, equalities and discrimination, descent-based and caste-based discrimination, minority rights and South Asia and its diaspora. It will be a resource for legal practitioners and those in the public and non-governmental sectors involved in the implementation, interpretation and enforcement of equality law in the UK, the first European country to introduce the word caste into domestic equality legislation and in countries with South Asian diasporas such as the USA. Memory, Identity and the Colonial Encounter in India Ezra Rashkow, Sanjukta Ghosh, Upal Chakrabarti, 2017-08-18 This book sheds new light on the dynamics of the colonial encounter between Britain and India. It highlights how various analytical approaches to this encounter can be creatively mobilised to rethink entanglements of memory and identity emerging from British rule in the subcontinent. This volume reevaluates central long-standing debates about the historical impact of the British Raj by deviating from hegemonic and top-down civilizational perspectives. It focuses on interactions, relations and underlying meanings of the colonial experience. The narratives of memory, identity and the legacy of the colonial encounter are woven together in a diverse range of essays on subjects such as colonial and nationalist memorials, British Eurasian, Dalit and Adivasi identities, regional political configurations and state initiatives and patterns of control. By drawing on empirically rich regional and chronological historical studies, this book will be essential reading for students and researchers of history, political science, colonial studies, cultural studies and South Asian studies. Dharma, Disorder and the Political in Ancient India Adam Bowles, 2007-10-15 The paddharmaparvan, the book on conduct in times of distress, is an important section of the great Sanskrit epic, the Mahabharata, which despite its significance for Mahabharata studies and for the history of Indian social and political thought has received little attention in scholarly literature. This book places the paddharmaparvan within its literary and ideological contexts. In so doing, it explores the development of a conception of brahmanic kingship, morally justifiable within the terms of a debate largely set by various alternative social movements of the period. This book further explores the implications for our understanding of the Mahabharata that follow from the paddharmaparvan's presentation as a poetically cohesive unit within itself and within the wider parameters of the Mahabharata. Subordinate Schopen,2014-07-31 Buddhist Nuns Monks and Other Worldly Matters Recent Papers on Monastic Buddhism in India is the fourth in a series of collected essays by one of today s most distinguished scholars of Indian Buddhism In these articles Gregory Schopen once again displays the erudition and originality that have contributed to a major shift in the way that Indian Buddhism is perceived understood and studied Locality, History, Memory Rita Mukherjee,M. N.

Rajesh,2009-01-14 Locality History Memory The Making of the Citizen in South Asia was born out of the need to interrogate the tropes through which place history and memory underpin notions of citizenship in present Southasia Time as both time present and time past is framed here in two settings as privileging both place material or ideological site and space The latter refers to religion oppression marginalization and or dalitisation Time transcends both site location and actual physical boundaries Locality or location is therefore envisioned in terms of both actual place as well as a gateway to a larger space in terms of a situation where historical memory negotiates the increasingly complex present Agency and contingency therefore assume a critical importance here Citizenship far from being a discrete entity is found to be multidimensional it refers to formal status and the legal status of nationality and citizenship authenticated in the passport but it also refers to rights and privileges identity and solidarity religious beliefs and a sense of belonging Moving away from the role of the state which has been at the centre of all inquiries on citizenship we ask here the following questions in Locality History Memory How does our history enforce or dilute the notion of the citizen How far does memory strengthen or weaken it What role does features not normally associated with citizenship such as access to natural resources or ritual faith and religion play in reinforcing such a status History in the end is written by the historian and it was easy to map the changing methodologies used by the historians to essay the past but this is becoming increasingly difficult now Another twist is the shift to hypertext at a popular level echoing what the late E H Carr had once called bringing more and more people into history These so called alternative histories or people s histories are becoming more and more popular because of the point at which we are located in time Moreover devices afforded by the new media enable these alternative histories to have an immediacy that the conventional historical format lacked The collapse of state control over the new media has led to the resurgence of many archaic voices unimaginable just a decade ago From Dasarajna to Kuruksetra Kanad Sinha,2021-11-24 Is it true that the ancient Indians had no sense of History The book begins with this question and points out how the ways of perceiving the past could be culture specific and how the concept of historical traditions can be useful in studying the various ways of memorising and representing the past even if those ways do not necessarily correspond to the methodology of the Occidental discipline called History Ancient India had several historical traditions and the book focuses on one of them the itihasa It also shows how the Mahabharata is the best illustration of this tradition and how a historical study of the contents of the text with comparison with and corroboration from other contemporary sources and traditions may help us restore the text in its original context in the bardic historical tradition about the Later Vedic Kurus Is the Mahabharata then an authentic history This book does not claim so However it shows how the text had originated as a critical reflection on a great period of transition how it dealt with the conflicting philosophies of the transitional period how it propounded its thesis by creating new kinds of heroes such as Yudhishthira and Krsna and how the text was reworked when it was canonized by the brahmanas

Representing the

Margin Ajay S. Sekher, 2008 The work explores the representation of socio cultural margins of caste and gender in Indian contexts in works of fiction written in various Indian languages in the twentieth century taking representative samples from Hindi Urdu Bengali Kannada Malayalam and English The focus of enquiry is the narrativization of these important cultural and political questions in representative texts of fiction What are the socio political and cultural implications and underpinnings of the representation of marginalization in the medium and genre of fiction what could be the politics ethics and aesthetics of such narrating how far such representations are subversive or consensual complicit what are the limitations and pitfalls of such intervening radicalism in fictional narration all these questions are taken up in detail in the analyses In the greater sense this study is also a critique of modernity and its discontents as it analyses the dialectics of modernity its radical as well as reactionary aspects A problematic premise of contextualizing the text and textualizing the context would also be prominent in the attempt Fictional texts from five Indian languages including English two texts from each language are incorporated in the study to ensure regional and linguistic representation within the limits of the availability of works in translation Questions of class analytical perspectives in the context of Brahmanic patriarchy are explicated and critiqued The need for a subaltern hermeneutics and the urgency of epistemological democratization are also discussed as a political and emancipatory outcome of the study Both the formal as well as thematic concerns of the novel in the Indian languages are found to be shaped and determined by the material realities and associated attitudes and worldviews of caste and gender hierarchy emanating from internal imperialism Though the ten texts chosen attempt intense critique of the gender question the more profound and specific cultural question of caste evades comprehension and critical understanding Caste often escapes as the un representable in narration as it is in conversion
