History Moon Tony Fletcher,2000-09-19 Keith Moon was the bad boy of rock roll the most manic member of an aggressive and fabulously successful band a full throttle hedonist who lived at the center of an unending party He was also a musical genius who inspired whole generations of artists a generous friend to nearly everyone who crossed his path a guileless man of immense personal charm to whom the sweetest sound on earth was surf music A generation after his death Moon is still revered as the greatest drummer in rock history and the single wildest personality in an age of pop excess Here is the truth behind the legend the result of more than three years of research in which music journalist Tony Fletcher interviewed dozens of Moon s friends colleagues and associates The result is an instant classic that brilliantly illuminates both the tender and self destructive sides of this singular personality This is the story of one of the most outrageous rock stars ever born and Moon is one of the greatest rock biographies ever written Oceanic Encounters Margaret Jolly,Serge Tcherkézoff,Darrell Tryon,2009-07-01 This volume the result of ongoing collaborations between Australian and French anthropologists historians and linguists explores encounters between Pacific peoples and foreigners during the longue dur e of European exploration colonisation and settlement from the sixteenth century to the twentieth century It deploys the concept of encounter rather than the more common idea of first contact for several reasons Encounters with Europeans occurred in the context of extensive prior encounters and exchanges between Pacific peoples manifest in the distribution of languages and objects and in patterns of human settlement and movement The concept of encounter highlights the mutuality in such meetings of bodies and minds whereby preconceptions from both sides were brought into confrontation dialogue mutual influence and ultimately mutual transformation It stresses not so much prior visions of strangers or others but the contingencies in events of encounter and how senses other than vision were crucial in shaping reciprocal appraisals But a stress on mutual meanings and interdependent agencies in such cross cultural encounters should not occlude the tumultuous misunderstandings political contests and extreme violence which also characterised Indigenous European interactions over this period Paradise for Sale Carl N. McDaniel,John M. Gowdy,2000-01-28 This is the brief story of a remote South Pacific island that was once rich in resources and is now virtually a cinder in the sea The conditions that caused this decline were human greed and ignorant practices The story is a startling example of how easily our environments can be trashed
