Thailand Charles F Keyes, 2019-07-09 Thailand is exceptional among modern states in Asia in that it has built and retained a national culture around a traditional monarchical institution Moreover this culture has also been based on a dominant religious tradition that of Theravada Buddhism The process of creating the modern nation state of Thailand out of the traditional Buddhist kingdom of Siam began in the nineteenth century when the rulers of Siam confronted with increasing pressure from the colonial powers of Britain and France were able to preserve their country's independence by instituting revolutionary changes that established the authority of a centralized bureaucracy throughout the country The new state asserted its authority not only over Siamese who lived in the core area of the old kingdom but also over large numbers of Lao Yuan or Northern Thai Khmer Malays tribal peoples and other groups all of which had previously enjoyed relative autonomy and over the sizable immigrant Chinese population which was assuming an increasingly significant role in the economy Because the rulers of the Siamese state strove to incorporate these diverse peoples into a Thai national community how this community should be defined and what type of state structure should be linked with it have been dominant questions in modern Thai history Significant tensions have arisen from the efforts by members of the Thai elite to make the monarchical traditions of the Bangkok dynasty Buddhism and the central Thai language basic to Thai national culture Other tensions have arisen as monarchy military bureaucracy the Buddhist sangha business interests and elected political representatives assert or maintain an authoritative position in the state structure This book examines these tensions with reference to the major changes that have taken place in Thai society economy polity and culture in the twentieth century especially since World War II

Woman between Two Kingdoms Leslie Castro-Woodhouse, 2020-12-15 Woman between Two Kingdoms explores the story of Dara Rasami one of 153 wives of King Chulalongkorn of Siam during the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Born in a kingdom near Siam called Lan Na Dara served as both hostage and diplomat for her family and nation Thought of as a harem by the West Siam's Inner Palace actually formed a nexus between the domestic and the political Dara's role as an ethnic Other among the royal concubines assisted the Siamese in both consolidating the kingdom's territory and building a local version of Europe's hierarchy of civilizations Dara Rasami's story provides a fresh perspective on both the sociopolitical roles played by Siamese palace women and Siam's response to the intense imperialist pressures it faced in the late nineteenth century Thanks to generous funding from the Andrew W Mellon Foundation through The Sustainable History Monograph Pilot the ebook editions of this book are available as Open Access volumes from Cornell Open cornellpress.cornell.edu/cornell-open and other repositories

Medicinal Plants of Northern Thailand for the Treatment of Cognitive Impairment in the Elderly Lisa Offringa, 2014-11-21 This book provides a description of cognitive impairment in the elderly population through the lens of Thai Traditional Medicine as it is practiced in northern Thailand It provides an overview of Thai Traditional Medicine and the memory loss presented in elderly dementia Some medicinal plants used by traditional Thai healers to treat cognitive decline and memory issues in the elderly are reviewed Medicinal Plants of Northern Thailand for the Treatment of Cognitive Impairment in the Elderly provides readers with the detailed description of the in vitro screening of ten plants and those results The bioactivity of these single plants exemplifies the success of using an ethnobotanical filter to identify plants with cognitive enhancing activity

Forest Guardians, Forest Destroyers Tim Forsyth, Andrew Walker, 2011-07-01 In this far reaching examination of environmental problems and politics in northern Thailand Tim Forsyth and Andrew Walker analyze deforestation water supply soil erosion use of agrochemicals and biodiversity in order to challenge popularly held notions of environmental crisis They argue that such crises have been used to support political objectives of state expansion and control in the uplands They have also been used to justify the alternative directions advocated by an array of NGOs In official and alternative discourses of economic development the peoples living in Thailand's hill country are typically cast as either guardians or destroyers of forest resources often depending on their ethnicity Political and historical factors have created a simplistic misleading and often scientifically inaccurate environmental narrative Hmong farmers for example are thought to exhibit environmentally destructive practices whereas the Karen are seen as linked to and protective of their ancestral home Forsyth and Walker reveal a much more complex relationship of hill farmers to the land to other ethnic groups and to the state They conclude that current explanations fail to address the real causes of environmental problems and unnecessarily restrict the livelihoods of local people The authors critical assessment of simplistic environmental narratives as well as their suggestions for finding solutions will be valuable in international policy discussions about environmental issues in rapidly developing countries Moreover their redefinition of northern Thailand s environmental problems and their analysis of how political influences have reinforced inappropriate policies demonstrate new ways of analyzing how environmental science and knowledge are important arenas for political control This book makes valuable contributions to Thai studies and more generally to the fields of environmental science ecology geography anthropology and political science as well as to policy making and resource management in the developing world Cattle
