

- In the rapidly growing tumors, relatively more overall abnormality is present, and the background (particularly the alpha rhythm) is more impaired and disorganized.
- Glioblastomas produce the most widespread, slowest (often 1 Hz or less), and largest (100-200 mV) delta waves. These tumors cause prominent PDA, with marked alteration of background rhythms. Also, the high incidence of necrosis makes "flat PDA" (low-amplitude slow delta with diminished fast activity) more likely.
- Indolent gliomas commonly cause seizures, and epileptiform activity may appear before significant slowing occurs. Later, delta appears, often intermittently and at 2-3 Hz. Still later, focal PDA becomes persistent.

Metastases

Metastatic tumors to the brain occur commonly with carcinomas of lung, kidney, and breast and with melanomas and chorionic carcinomas. When metastases are present bilaterally, slowing often appears diffuse, although it is often asymmetric; slowing from multiple bilateral lesions is often difficult to distinguish from a toxic-metabolic disturbance. Meningeal carcinomatosis usually causes changes that correlate with the clinical situation; when deposits are widespread and cause an encephalopathy, slowing is usually diffuse.

Isolated metastases usually cause less prominent abnormalities than gliomas of similar size and location. Slow waves show higher frequency, lower amplitude, and less persistence than with high-grade gliomas, and normal background rhythms are more likely to be preserved.
