The Paradox of Human Nature and Religious Faith Christopher G. Smith, 2020-11-28 This is a book for our time The advent of Covid 19 is turning our world upside down and highlighting the paradoxical nature of human behaviour A minority of thoughtless people are indulging in selfish activities that threaten our safety whilst NHS workers heroically risk their own lives to save others In South Africa members of rival drug gangs who would normally kill each other without a second thought have called a truce and are now working together in order to ensure that food is distributed to needy families Human nature is paradoxical because it is capable of perceiving both the finite secular and infinite spiritual which are juxtaposed within the context of reality What makes this book different is that spirituality is not considered to be other worldly What we refer to as the secular and the spiritual are viewed as two sides of a coin that co exist as part of one reality within the context of temporality Both contribute to what we perceive to be a sense of self They are different perceptions of consciousness that influence human behaviour through conscious and subconscious processes The aim of this book is to consider the factors that contribute to the paradoxical nature of being human and to explore the issues that cloud our perceptions and cause confusion It proffers a vision of how a religious faith can be made intelligible at a time when the majority of people living in our postmodern age consider it to be irrelevant The Metaphysics of Paradox Wm. Andrew Schwartz, 2018-09-15 This book is an exploration into the paradoxical structure of pluralistic thinking as illuminated by both Western and Eastern insights especially Jainism By calling into question the most fundamental assumptions of religious pluralists the author hopes to contribute to a paradigm shift in discourse on religious pluralism and conflicting truth claims
