Farm and Factory Daniel Nelson, 1995-12-22 Farm and Factory illuminates the importance of the Midwest in U S labor history America's heartland often overlooked in studies focusing on other regions or particular cities or industries has a distinctive labor history characterized by the sustained simultaneous growth of both agriculture and industry. Since the transfer of labor from farm to factory did not occur in the Midwest until after World War II, industrialists recruited workers elsewhere, especially from Europe and the American South. The region's relatively underdeveloped service sector, shaped by the presumption that goods were more desirable than service, ultimately led to agonizing problems of adjustment as agriculture and industry evolved in the late twentieth century.
