The Battlegrounds Of Bioscience:

Transforming Education for Sustainability María S. Rivera Maulucci, Stephanie Pfirman, Hilary S. Callahan, 2023-06-20

This book investigates how educators and researchers in the sciences social sciences and the arts connect concepts of sustainability to work in their fields of study and in the classrooms where they teach the next generation Sustainability with a focus on justice authenticity and inclusivity can be integrated into many different courses or disciplines even if it is beyond their historical focus The narratives describe sustainability education in the classroom the laboratory and the field broadly defined and how the authors navigate the complexities of particular sustainability issues such as climate change water quality soil health biodiversity resource use and education in authentic ways that convey their complexity the sociopolitical context and their hopes for the future The chapters explore how faculty engage students in learning about sustainability and the ways in which working at the edge of what we know about sustainability can be a significant source of engagement motivation and challenge The authors discuss how they create learning experiences that foster democratic practices in which students are not just following protocols but have a stake in creative decision making collecting and analysing data and posing authentic questions They also describe what happens when students are not just passively receiving information but actively analysing debating dialoguing arguing from evidence and constructing nuanced understandings of complex socioscientific sustainability issues The narratives include undergraduate student perspectives on what it means to engage in sustainability research and learning how students navigate the complexities and contradictions inherent in sustainability issues what makes for authentic empowering learning experiences and how students are encouraged to persevere in the field This is an open access book

On Genetic Interests Frank Salter, 2017-07-28 From an evolutionary perspective individuals have a vital interest in the reproduction of their genes Yet this interest is overlooked by social and political theory at a time when we need to steer an adaptive course through the unnatural modern world of uneven population growth and decline global mobility and loss of family and communal ties In modern Darwinian theory bearing children is only one way to reproduce Since we share genes with our families ethnic groups and the species as a whole ethnocentrism and humanism can be adaptive They can also be hazardous when taken to extremes On Genetic Interests canvasses strategies and ethics for conserving our genetic interests in an environmentally sustainable manner sensitive to the interests of others

Adapting To A.I. Conrad Riker, 101-01-01 Outpace the Machines or Get Replaced Your Choice Are you sick of being told masculinity is toxic while women still demand strength Frustrated that A I threatens your job but no one gives straight answers Worried bioscience changes will leave you obsolete This book cuts through the noise Reveal why men must dominate tech shifts not beg for equality Leverage robotics to boost your authority not weaken it Turn bioscience breakthroughs into tools for control Crush the double binds that trap modern men Apply logic not emotion to outthink algorithms Build unbreakable resilience using biological truths Lead in a world where softness means extinction Secure your future with science not weakness If you want to rule the coming age of machines and genes then buy this book today Historical Studies in the Physical and Biological Sciences,2002 The Battlegrounds of Bio-Science Frank Miele,2002-11

Reflections on Life Walter Kistler, Frank Miele,2003 This book distills six decades of diary entries on science religion truth ethics success and society by Walter Kistler scientist industrialist and philanthropist The book explores these subjects through the lenses of analysis and implication and presents the compelling findings of an extraordinary lifelong intellectual odyssey The Impacts of Biological Traits and Anthropogenic Threats on Seabird Extinction Risk Stacey Buckelew,2007 Landscape-scale Conservation Planning Stephen C. Trombulak, Robert Baldwin,2010-09-21 Hugh P Possingham Landscape scale conservation planning is coming of age In the last couple of decades conservation practitioners working at all levels of governance and all spatial scales have embraced the CARE principles of conservation planning Comprehensiveness Adequacy Representativeness and Efficiency Hundreds of papers have been written on this theme and several different kinds of software program have been developed and used around the world making conservation planning based on these principles global in its reach and influence Does this mean that all the science of conservation planning is over that the discovery phase has been replaced by an engineering phase as we move from defining the rules to implementing them in the landscape This book and the continuing growth in the literature suggest that the answer to this question is most definitely no All of applied conservation can be wrapped up into a single sentence what should be done the action in what place at what time using what mechanism and for what outcome the objective It all seems pretty simple what where when how and why However stating a problem does not mean it is easy to solve General Program, Annual AIBS Meeting of Biological Societies American Institute of Biological Sciences,1990
