

The Perfect Monologue

-if you actors think performing a monologue is a nightmare, try sitting there all day long watching the damn things
-theaters do monologue auditions as a way of eliminating actors rather than as a way of finding them
-since acting is the creation of relationships, a monologue in which you are talking to no one but your inner self, which turns you inward and self-involved, is patently self-defeating. The process of acting is the giving and receiving of meaningful communications from another human being

Introduction

-most actors fail at the monologue audition

-I look for and expect a single result: a finished opening-night performance

-at the audition auditors need to see open, honest, intelligent, and appealing work

-only those deemed interesting, appealing, and real will then be called back to read from the script

-as an auditor, I am unimpressed by the actor who recites a remembrance from a long-ago past instead of choosing material in the here and now, which includes the other character in the scene

-always keep in mind that you will be compared to the others. And lack of originality and resourcefulness will be counted against you

-you've got to own the material. And you've got to have passion for the material you choose or you will just be adequate, which is what we see too much of at auditions

-your choice of monologues should be based on a strong emotional identification with the character's words. You should relate to the character's emotions; you should feel as if you might even say the same words in the same situation

-your goal as an actor is to delight us and surprise us. You should have a strong, magnetic stage presence. Don't come to us; make us come to you. Command our attention and win our affection with your powers. Be unpredictable. But for heaven's sake, don't scare the hell out of us. Don't disgust us and don't make us fearful that we are dealing with a recent escapee from the Bellevue mental ward

-to act is to give. You give gifts to your audience. You expose your vulnerability and share yourself, warts and all. You are giving love. You don't make up or pretend anything as an actor. You create your reality. You make choices for your characters and you explore and find new truths. You make discoveries about yourself and come to know yourself better. This inner search for truth materializes during your preparation and rehearsals

-in a sense an actor is a social scientist. As an actor, you change minds and attitudes

-“civilians” discover and uncover their own beings because of you. They expand their visions and horizons because of you

-the audience member wants to see himself up there in you. He has to recognize himself as he is, or wishes to be, or hopes never to be, or perhaps once was. He has to connect to you through your humanity and vulnerability. If you don't fully explore from deep within and communicate strongly, you will alienate yourself from him

-go to your audition to perform for the audience, not audition for the auditors

-we want from you no less than you would give during a performance for a paying audience

-if you desire to act because you want to give of yourself, share yourself unconditionally, expose your vulnerability, and give love, then you've got a shot. It is then and only then that you can get acceptance, applause, adoration, and love

What is a Monologue?

-your monologue is not from the play you are auditioning for; therefore, you do not have the obligation to service the playwright's play fully as you must do in a cold reading. You must use the monologue as a vehicle to showcase you, the actor. It must work for you, not your for it

-when you extract speeches or long blocks of dialogue out of the play, notice that by and large the dialogue consists of telling and recalling an action that took place already. The material deals with the past and not with the here and now

-moreover, this sort of piece doesn't allow you to connect with the other characters in the scene. You are not able to create a strong relationship because you are only telling a story. The material is essentially a memory piece

-when you are being seen by auditors you want to show as much of your ability as possible. Simply telling a story prevents this from happening and does not allow you to work with your full strengths as an actor

-the memory piece does not service you at all. It has no sense of immediacy, and the result is characterless and insipid
