

"John Cook's ripping life story exposes Tasmania's old kerosene-fuelled lighthouses: relentless physically and emotionally demanding labour, done under the often cruel vagaries of nature. Noble work that can ultimately redeem a lost soul. Or break them." MATTHEW EVANS

The Last Lighthouse Keeper:

The Last Lighthouse Keeper John Cook, Jon Bauer, 2020-07-02 A beautiful memoir from John Cook one of Tasmania's last kerosene lighthouse keepers. A story about madness and wilderness shining a light onto the vicissitudes of love and nature. In Tasmania John Cook is known as The Keeper of the Flame. John's renowned as one of the last of the kerosene keepers he spent a good part of his 26 year career in Tasmanian lighthouses tending kerosene not electrical lamps. He joined the lighthouse service in 1969 after a spell in the merchant marine. Far from reviling work on isolated islands such as Tasman and Maatsuyker Australia's southernmost lighthouse he discovered that he loved the solitude and delighted in the sense of purpose that light keeping gave him. He did two stints on Tasman in 1969-71 and 1977 and was the head keeper on Maatsuyker for eight years. Tasman's kerosene light was a pressure lamp fuelled by two big bottles that had to be pumped up to 75 pounds per square inch about 516 kilopascals. It was the equivalent of pumping up a tyre every 20 minutes. John says: 'Then you had to wind up the weights, they went down the tower and turned the prism around like a big clockwork. If the weights went all the way to the bottom the light would stop. The main thing was that 365 nights of the year you sat in that tower 100 feet up and you had to stay awake.' John says of Tasman: 'If you fell asleep the light would stop and then you were in trouble. Keepers took watches around the clock in a system similar to that on a ship. Day watches weren't a chance to slack off; standing orders required the watchkeeper to look seawards at least every half hour and to log sightings of any vessels and their course in the area. But the main thing was there was always maintenance to do.' John says: 'Because Mother Nature was your boss. She'd blow gutters off that sort of thing; she was always stickin' her bib in and you were repairin' it.' Tasman keepers also ran a herd of up to 500 sheep. They didn't have a freezer so they'd kill and dress a sheep every fortnight. John supplemented his bulk stores delivered every three months by the lighthouse supply vessel with extras brought on the bi-monthly mail boat and by keeping chooks, ducks and turkeys. 'I never ran out of things to do,' he says. 'In my free time I used to do correspondence courses. I did navigation, diesel mechanics, business management and accounting.' In 1977 keepers left the Tasman quarters forever. 'I've got such strong memories of those places with people in them and kids' voices rattlin' around,' John says. 'It breaks my heart to think about those places sittin' out there empty with no lights on.'

The Last Lighthouse Sharma Krauskopf, 2000. This work depicts the nine year quest of an American couple, an agricultural advisor and a writer/webmaster living on a farm in Michigan, USA, to own and live in a remote Scottish lighthouse keepers' home. In the form of e-mails, the book gives an intimate view of the gleefully reported successes and the less happily reported tragedies along the way and describes the joys and difficulties of running and living in such a home in a remote but beautiful part of the Shetlands.

The Last Lighthouse Keeper Alan Titchmarsh, 2000. Trinity House is turning all its lighthouses into automated beacons. There is just one manned lighthouse left on Prince Albert Rock off the wild Cornish coast where Will Elliott leads his solitary existence. Now the time has finally come for Will to fulfill his life-long dream sailing around Britain.

Port Dalhousie: An Intimate History Christine Aloian-Robertson, David Serafino, 2020-07-11 Port Dalhousie started out as a farming and fishing settlement at the mouth of Twelve Mile Creek at what would become the northern terminus of the First Welland Canal Throughout the 19th century it prospered and grew into a village and then a town but fell into a gradual decline due to the opening of the Fourth Welland Canal in Port Weller three miles to the east in 1932 the end of passenger ship service in 1950 and the closing of the popular Lakeside Park in 1971 In 1961 it was incorporated into the City of St Catharines and in 1974 woke up to a resurgence of pride in a community that discovered its incredible history Many of those residents who had lived through the earliest of these times were still alive when the interviews herein were first being recorded Though the forty some interviews contained within add personal colour humour and passion to the story that is Port Dalhousie the historical account would not be complete without a narrative that defines the eras that this settlement village and town passed through on the way to becoming what it is today This history begins at the close of the 18th century and carries on to the early 1960s when it ceased being a town and became a suburb of the City of St Catharines The many who remember the days prior to amalgamation and even many newcomers identify with living in Port Dalhousie or as the old timers would say Pordaloozie

A Brief Atlas of Lighthouses at the End of the World José Luis González Macías, 2024-04-02 A unique illustrated exploration of our favorite oceanic beacons and their haunted histories There is something beautiful and wild in the impossible architecture of lighthouses These precariously perched structures have been the homes and workplaces of keepers whose romantic guardianship has saved countless lives from cruel seas While that way of life may have faded away as the lights go out and the buildings crumble we still have their stories This collection of more than thirty tales spans the heights and depths of human experience the blind lighthouse keeper tending a light in the Arctic Circle the intrepid young woman saving ships from wreck beginning at just age twelve the desperate plight of a crew cut off for forty days with meager supplies the lighthouse haunted by the clacking sound of a long passed keeper s ghostly typewriter Interweaving literary inspiration and elements from Jules Verne Virginia Woolf and Edgar Allan Poe and accompanied by beautiful illustrations nautical charts maps architectural plans and curious facts these illuminating stories will transport the reader in a book as full of wonder as the far flung lighthouses themselves

QUIRKY STORIES AND A LITERARY APPROACH Fascinating stories and anecdotes about each lighthouse include such features as notable inhabitants Virginia Woolf tantalizing on site discoveries Edgar Allen Poe s unfinished writings and weird twists such as a never before seen species made extinct by a lighthouse keeper s cat Tibbles

UNIQUELY ILLUSTRATED The gorgeous pointillistic full page illustrations equally beautiful location maps and detailed building diagrams make this a distinctive celebration of these fascinating structures and their places in the world
