Sleep Has His House:

Sleep Has His House Anna Kavan, 2014-08-01 A classic later novel by Anna Kavan A largely autobiographical account of an unhappy childhood this daring synthesis of memoir and surrealist experimentation chronicles the subject's gradual withdrawal from the daylight world of received reality Brief flashes of daily experience from childhood adolescence and youth are described in what is defined as nighttime language a heightened decorative prose that frees these events from their gloomy associations The novel suggests we have all spoken this dialect in childhood and in our dreams but these thoughts can only be sharpened or decoded by contemplation in the dark Revealing that side of life which is never seen by the waking eye but which dreams and drugs can suddenly emphasize this startling discovery illustrates how these nighttime illuminations reveal the narrator's joy for the living world

Reconsidering Drugs NA NA, 2016-04-30 Lawrence Driscoll's fresh examination of the meaning of drugs from the Victorians to the present asks us to listen to historical and current voices whose positions on drugs are at variance with our truths Driscoll draws on the work of figures as diverse as William Burroughs Sigmund Freud Conan Doyle and Anna Kavan to shed light on different or silenced ways of talking about drugs and to offer us a historical counter memory The result of his work is to unsettle and disturb the familiar parameters that frame our discussion of drugs revealing that others are available positions which expose our own constructions as surprisingly limited

British Experimental Women's Fiction, 1945–1975 Andrew Radford, Hannah Van Hove, 2021-08-23 This book scrutinizes a range of relatively overlooked post WWII British women writers who sought to demonstrate that narrative prose fiction offered rich possibilities for aesthetic innovation What unites all the primary authors in this volume is a commitment to challenging the tenets of British mimetic realism as a literary and historical phenomenon This collection reassesses how British female novelists operated in relation to transnational vanguard networking clusters debates and tendencies both political and artistic The chapters collected in this volume enquire for example whether there is something fundamentally different or politically dissident about female experimental procedures and perspectives This book also investigates the processes of canon formation asking why in one way or another these authors have been sidelined or misconstrued by recent scholarship Ultimately it seeks to refine a new research archive on mid century British fiction by female novelists at least as diverse as recent and longer established work in the domain of modernist studies
