books A taste for good things developed now will lead the pupils to demand good things when free to choose The value of these lessons will be greatly enhanced if the teacher reads to the children in connection with the lessons such selections as are suggested by the text Many of Long fellow s poems for example should be read and some should be committed to memory after the lesson on Longfellow It is hoped that many of the poems will be memorized as well as read by the children Thus the words as well as the thought become their possession Nearly every lesson suggests language lessons which the skillful teacher will readily plan in connection with the reading For example a study of the turtle would naturally follow the lesson on Jack and Joe The pictures as well as the lessons have been carefully prepared or selected with reference to accepted standards and to the children s tastes They should be studied until some appreciation of their meaning is gained Artists names should become as familiar to the children as are the names of poets Many forms of study have been indicated The word study should demand thought and result in added power to do in dependent work The language lessons rhyming exercises and questions will help to form the habit of study Attention is called to the script lessons which present beautiful forms as well as beautiful thoughts for copying They thus possess a double advantage for seat work About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
