By
JACK BELDEN

"No man should believe in fate, that is, in mere necessity, in the dependence on some force, no matter how divine it be. If it is destiny, the rolling forth of fresh forces and the material weakening which every offensive undergoes in the long run may bring about a turn of fortune, or assistance may come from abroad. There is always still time to die."

Still Time To Die Jack Belden, 2015-11-06 Vivid intensely human impressions of the war in China Malta Tunisia and Sicily by the author of Retreat with Stilwell Belden's first book Retreat with Stilwell Knopf was one of the most distinguished correspondent's books It did not have the sale it deserved he insists on saying things that should be said rather than things people want to read Even more true of this book which though two thirds of the text records war through battle the remaining third dominates sums up Belden's conclusions and grim determination to help his readers recognize the falsehood of war falsehood not only in its reportage but in its underlying causes rooted in the world soul sickness fascism which he feels is pregnant in America and must be fought now No analyzes the determining factors of the battlefield uncertainty insecurity need for political conviction of the importance of this war divorce of the combat army from civilians etc The balance deals specifically with Ksueh Malta the Mareth Line Sicily Messina Salerno Pungent phrase and fire for crusading passion Kirkus Reviews      And a Time to Die Sharon Kaufman, 2005-04-19 A reassuring and illuminating examination on our conflicting wishes about the end of life how the politics and routines of the American hospital have formed our understanding and experience of death and ultimately why what we consider a good death is so hard to attain In a penetrating and revelatory study medical anthropologist Dr Sharon Kaufman uses two years of intensive observations and interviews with scores of patients family members physicians nurses social workers and other staff at several community hospitals in California to explore the heart of a science driven yet fractured and often irrational world of health care delivery where empathetic yet frustrated hard working yet constrained professionals both respond to and create the anxieties and often inchoate expectations of patients and families who must make decisions they are ill prepared to make She sought out the critically ill the dying and their friends and relatives She followed patients from admission to death days weeks or sometimes months later through what is often for them and their families a Kafkaesque journey She asked hospital staff what they were doing and why and stood beside doctors and nurses observing their work cynicism compassion and frustration And she paid close attention to the most important player of all the hospital bureaucracy and how it impacts the manner and timing of patient death Her investigative research links together the emotional experiences of patients and families the dedicated work of hospital staff and the ramifications of institutional bureaucracy to show the invisible power of the hospital system itself its rules mandates and daily activity in organizing death and individual experience of it The book is the story of real patients and their families an account of what drives the American hospital today and a report on the complex sources and implications of doing something about death      A Time to Love and a Time to Die Erich Maria Remarque, 2014-03-04 From the quintessential author of wartime Germany A Time to Love and a Time to Die echoes the harrowing insights of his masterpiece All Quiet on the Western Front After two years at the Russian front Ernst Graeber finally receives three weeks leave But since leaves have been canceled before he decides not to write his parents fearing he would just raise their hopes Then when

Graeber arrives home he finds his house bombed to ruin and his parents nowhere in sight Nobody knows if they are dead or alive As his leave draws to a close Graeber reaches out to Elisabeth a childhood friend Like him she is imprisoned in a world she did not create But in a time of war love seems a world away And sometimes temporary comfort can lead to something unexpected and redeeming The world has a great writer in Erich Maria Remarque He is a craftsman of unquestionably first rank a man who can bend language to his will Whether he writes of men or of inanimate nature his touch is sensitive firm and sure The New York Times Book Review
