One of Heatmap's Climate Books to Read in 2025 An empowering journey into the overstory with the arborists and forest experts safeguarding our iconic trees Journalist Marguerite Holloway arrives at the Women's Tree Climbing Workshop as a climbing novice but with a passion for trees and a deep concern about their future Run by twin sister tree doctors Bear LeVangie and Melissa LeVangie Ingersoll the workshop helps people from everyday tree lovers to women arborists working in a largely male industry develop impressive technical skills and ascend into the canopy As Holloway tackles unfamiliar equipment and dizzying heights she learns about the science of trees and tells the stories of charismatic species including hemlock aspen Atlantic white cedar oak and beech She spotlights experts who are chronicling the great dying that is underway in forests around the world as trees face simultaneous and accelerating threats from drought heat floods disease and other disruptions As she climbs Holloway also comes to understand the profound significance of trees in her relationship with her late mother and brother The book's rousing final chapter offers something new a grander environmental and arboreal optimism in which the story of trees and their resilience meshes with that of people working to steward the forests of the future and of community found among fellow tree climbers A lyrical work of memoir and reportage Take to the Trees sounds the alarm about rapid arboreal decline while also offering hope about how we might care for our forests and ourselves

The Twilight Forest Gary Ferguson, 2025-10-16
Ponderosa pine has long been a charismatic icon of the American West yet a quiet unraveling has begun In the past decade in a vast area from Santa Fe to the Sierras more than two hundred million ponderosa have died While some will survive in cooler places scientists estimate that by mid century less than five percent of the ponderosa in the American Southwest may remain As the very character of this vast region shifts what will be left behind In The Twilight Forest Gary Ferguson brings readers on an expansive journey through the ponderosa forests of the Southwest both to mourn and to celebrate the forests that nurtured him The result is a life affirming tribute to one of America's most cherished wild landscapes and a reminder that loss can be a pathway to connection
