Technological change is not only a determinant of growth but is also a pivotal factor in international competition and the modernization of an economy In one of the most in depth and detailed studies of its kind George Korres analyzes the macroeconomic and the microeconomic factors influencing the economics of innovation and the economic relations between technology innovation knowledge and productivity In particular this book examines both the theoretical framework and the applications for empirical results This second edition contributes updated figures and estimations for technical change from EU member states and features new subjects including growth models productivity models production function models and non parametric models In one of the most in depth and detailed studies of its kind this book captures all the existing contemporary techniques in the theoretical fields as well as the empirical applications of the models Technological Change and Industrial Development Rachna Mujoo,2001 Inequality, Economic Growth, and Technological Change Volker Grossmann,2012-12-06 The book examines the relationship between inequality growth and technological progress It provides a broad overview of the existing literature and introduces specific innovative aspects about the impact of inequality and redistribution on growth when growth is driven by human or physical capital investments as well as the impact of technological progress and accumulation on the distribution of earnings There is a special focus on the role of social comparison redistributive taxation and new information technologies for the relationship between inequality and growth The analytical part of the book mainly consists of endogenous growth models Technological Change and Economic Growth Floyd Alden Bond,1965 Technology and Economic Development Edward J. Malecki,2009 This study examines the effects of technological change on economic growth and development synthesizing extensive research from multiple disciplines including geography and planning regional science entrepreneurship technology policy and economics It uses the framework of regional development to encompass economic dynamics at all spatial scales national regional and local The concept of regional development is introduced as the qualitative or structural features of a region s economy as opposed to its sheer size or growth rate The analysis also examines the core periphery dichotomy where the core is defined as a set of regions in which complexity technology and control are the norm and where linkages to other nodes and the global system are common The discussion also draws a distinction between economic growth and economic development the former designates increases in population within a specific area or increases in the quantity or the value of the goods and services and does not necessarily lead to qualitative improvements in life the way development does Technological capability is closely related to capability in R conventional strategies are changing to encompass people their contacts and skills as another vital basis for success of firms in new technologies and in alliances and other cooperations The location of economic activities is explored There are two major sets of influences on the innovativeness and competitiveness of places 1 technical skills and information are key in the process of technological change and competition and 2 urban areas contain a complex synergy of factors that smaller more remote places cannot attain Producer services which are strongly based on knowledge and symbolic analysis are therefore typically clustered in cities Small firms and entrepreneurship are examined as a crucial part of a well functioning regional economy Research has demonstrated the close relationship between entrepreneurship and regional and local development Innovativeness developed within local inter firm networks both supports existing firms and presents opportunities for starting new businesses in order to serve newly identified markets Networks of firms complement and sometimes substitute for a firm s own technological capability Networks of large firms and the globalization of economic activity are then considered Policy attempts at national regional and local scales to influence the location of economic activity are analyzed The economic progress and prospects of developing countries are assessed Policies for innovation entrepreneurship and the functioning of the economy are essential and require flexibility in order to respond to changing conditions in the world economy in specific product markets and in technology Concludes with a discussion of some of the central themes that were facing society at the end of the 1990s including basic needs for human development environmental issues employment and human capital and infrastructures for future technologies AT Innovation, Entrepreneurship, and Technological Change Albert N. Fischer, Giorgio Preto, 2012-12-06 The pressures of global competition are affecting regions throughout the world and making it increasingly necessary to understand the complex underlying mechanisms and the potential for innovation offered by new technology Success in economic restructuring depends not only on the technology itself but the professional and entrepreneurial skills available and the support of provided by institutions and information networks The very local nature these phenomena which are critical to the innovative propensity of firms operating within the region introduces an inevitable spatial dimension The time therefore seems ripe to bring together contributions from scholars working in different but related disciplines with the aim of investigating the triangular relationship between technological change economic development and space The present volume offers a compact review of current theoretical developments and valuable insights deriving from recent empirical studies carried out both within Europe and elsewhere All those contributing to this volume are actively involved in research in the field Without their intellectual contribution and willingness to participate in this joint project the book would not have been possible We should like in addition to thank Angela Spence for her capable assistance in coordinating the various stages of
