1. Introduction

Sustainable economic growth implies that maintaining growth without economic complications is essential to maintain the country's economic structure. Sustainable economic development considers protecting natural resources and people's needs and requirements without provoking environmental threats (Awan, 2013). The development of Sustainable Development Goals(SDGs) ensures financial development and energy efficiency/growth in the East, Asian, and Pacific regions (Zakari et al., 2022). With the massive contribution of ICT, employment, and education, the Middle East region witnessed significant changes in economic growth. However, the sustainable conditions of this region are not much satisfactory compared to the OECD countries. The

In the present study, the sustainable economic growth of Iraq is evaluated by analyzing six key explanatory variables, namely industrialization, deforestation, trade, employment, and agricultural expansion, which is measured by arable land. The study utilizes a time series research design spanning from 2000 to 2021. A quantitative approach was adopted, and data were collected from the World Bank database. The study utilized FMOLS (fully modified ordinary least squares) and DOLS (dynamic ordinary least squares) regression techniques to investigate the relationship. Additionally, canonical cointegrating regression (CCR) estimation was employed as a robust estimator. The results reveal significant negative effects of employment and deforestation on GDP per capita (GDPC). Industrialization also negatively impacts GDPC, while trade shows a positive influence. On the other hand, arable land does not exhibit a significant impact on GDPC. Based on the findings, the research suggests several policy implications.

The micro and macro environmental bodies in Iraq are observing these factors to guarantee the success of sustainable efforts in this region.

The agricultural sector of Iraq is vital for the economy of the country. Agriculture, forestry, and fishing add economic value and hold significant importance. Along with employment opportunities and industrial sustainable
