British Television Policy Bob Franklin,2001 British Television

Policy A Reader provides a forum for the significant policy debates which have informed and shaped television broadcasting since the publication in 1986 of the Peacock Committee Report on the financing of the BBC. The Reader presents key documents and critically analyses their impact on the organisation's financial resources, programme content, editorial philosophy and the regulatory environment of television broadcasting. Recognising that policy making is not wholly a prerogative of government, British Television Policy provides readers with access to a wide range of statutory and non-governmental documents which have affected British broadcasting legislation: Acts of Parliament, Private Members' Bills, Select Committee Reports, Official statements by Ministers, Parliamentary inquiries such as the Davies Report, Policy documents prepared by interest groups such as the Campaign for Quality Television and the Voice of the Listener and Viewer, Strategic announcements from the ITC, Statements from the BBC and ITV, Public lectures by media owners and executives such as Rupert Murdoch and Richard Eyre, Commentaries from media academics and media analysts. Beginning with a comprehensive editorial introduction which details television policy since 1945, the Reader is arranged in thematic sections which explore the purpose of television broadcasting, the financing of television broadcasting, policy and quality regulation and the relationship of broadcasting and politics. Each section is accompanied by an editor's introduction and commentary, and the Reader is supported by a glossary and a guide to further reading.

The Impact of International Television Michael G. Elasmar, 2014-04-08. For several decades, cultural imperialism has been the dominant paradigm for conceptualizing, labeling, predicting and explaining the effects of international television. It has been used as an unchallenged premise for numerous essays on the topic of imported television influence, despite the fact that the assumption of strong cultural influence is not necessarily reflected in the body of research that exists within this field of study. In The Impact of International Television: A Paradigm Shift, editor Michael G. Elasmar and his contributors challenge the dominant paradigm of cultural imperialism and offer an alternative paradigm with which to evaluate international or crossborder message influence. In this volume, Elasmar has collected original research from leading scholars working in the area of crossborder media influence and contributes his own meta-analysis to examine what research findings actually show on the influences of crossborder messages. The contributions included here illustrate points such as the contentions of cultural imperialism and the context in which its assumptions emerged and developed, the complexities of the relationship between exposure to foreign television and its subsequent effects on local audience members, the applicability of quantitative methods to a topic commonly tackled using argumentation, critical theory and other qualitative approaches, and the difficulty of achieving strong and homogenous effects. In bringing together the work of independent researchers, The Impact of International Television: A Paradigm Shift bridges over 40 years of research efforts focused on imported television influence, the results of which as a whole challenge the de facto strong and homogenous effects assumed by those who support the paradigm of cultural imperialism The volume sets a theory driven agenda of research and offers an alternative paradigm for the new generation of researchers interested in international media effects As such the volume is intended for scholars researchers and students in international and intercultural communication cross cultural communication mass communication media effects media and society and related areas It will also be of great interest to academics in international relations cross cultural and social psychology intergroup and international relations international public opinion and peace studies
