Beer, 2017-07-28 If present trends in divorce and remarriage continue before the end of the century the stepfamily will outnumber all other types of family in the United States In 1980 one out of five children under the age of eight were living in stepfamilies and there were at least two million households in which the children were related only by marriage stepsiblings or who shared only one parent in common half siblings How are these new kinds of family relationships working out In particular how are children faring in these kinds of families There are a number of books on the successes and difficulties of second marriages that involve children but most of these look at problems from the perspective of one or both spouses Popular literature in particular had emphasized the problem of the new spouse who inherits a family without really focusing on the relationships among stepsiblings Strangers in the House focuses on the children of these marriages both stepsiblings and half siblings and the relationships among them with the parents It is a report on how they are faring drawn from the results of original research by the author case studies of stepfamilies interviews with stepsiblings and half siblings a survey of members of the Stepfamily Association of America and participation in three step family self help groups The result is a vivid portrait of nontraditional family constellations that provides an overview of changes in American families the increased divorce and remarriage rates and how stepfamilies differ from other families Beer identifies major problem areas in stepsibling relations and shows how youngsters are adapting to these special situations He examines classic rivalries over love attention space and property shows how these are worked out within these special circumstances The book concludes with an overview of the dynamics of sibling relations in these special families and analyzes how the stepsibling subsystem fits into the large

Engendered Death Joseph W. Laythe, 2011-12-16 Engendered Death Pennsylvania Women Who Kill is an historical and interdisciplinary study of women who kill in Pennsylvania from the 18th century to the present It is not an examination of what motivates women to kill although the reader may deduce that from the case studies included Instead it is an examination of how society perceives women who kill and how the gender lens is applied to them throughout the legal process in the media and in the courtroom What makes this work particularly unique is its combination of both scholarly analysis and narrative case studies As such it will appeal to both the scholar and the reader of true crime non fiction If we are to recognize the complex variables at play in all criminal offenses we will need to understand that the laws of a community its social values its politics economics and even geography play a factor in what laws are enforced and against whom they are enforced The decision to define and label certain behaviors and certain people was based on social political and economic considerations of each community Thus the commission of murder by a woman in Arizona may have a variety of factors associated with it that are not present in the case of a woman who murdered her husband in Maine This study in part because of the volume of cases and in part to limit the variables affecting the cases has limited its scope of women killers to the state of Pennsylvania Pennsylvania is the ideal state to study because of its long and stable legal and political traditions its historically diverse population and the large number of newspapers that will help us gauge the public's view of women and women who kill By limiting our scope to one state we know that the legal definitions are fairly consistent for all of the women during a certain period and we can more easily identify the shifts in social values regarding women and homicide

Counseling Across the Lifespan Cindy L Juntunen, Donald R Atkinson, 2002 Counseling

Across the Lifespan expands the perimeters of counseling with its emphasis on preventive techniques for adjustment problems in the lifespan of a normal individual. This cogent work focuses on counseling intervention strategies from the unique perspective of an individual's lifespan, placing techniques in the proper development context. By concentrating on life stages from childhood through old age, the authors identify the nature and origin of various psychological issues such as self identity and healthy lifestyle development in adolescents, family violence in young adults, or retirement transitions for older adults. The intervention tools needed to confront these issues are presented through succinct pedagogical features including case examples, checklists for evaluating clients, and exercises.

Becoming A Stepfamily Patricia L. Papernow, 2015-07-17. What determines whether stepfamilies remain together? What helps stepfamilies overcome the difficulties of remarriage and become mutually supportive family units? How can mental health professionals better support this development? This book brings both clarity and depth to the unique and complex dynamics of remarried families. Patricia Papernow draws on interviews with over 100 stepfamily members, up-to-date research, a solid theoretical framework, and an empathic clinical sensibility to present an insightful model of stepfamily development: the Stepfamily Cycle. This detailed account of the stages of forming a lasting cohesive group is richly illustrated by stepfamily members' own stories. Becoming a Stepfamily describes the developmental challenges involved in building nourishing, reliable relationships between stepparents and stepchildren in the newly married couple and between different family groups who must learn to live together in a remarried family. Papernow discusses the factors that influence the pace and ease of development and she provides four full-length case studies illustrating the varied paths through the stepfamily cycle to the successful remarried life. The author offers therapists, clergy, school personnel, and others involved with stepfamilies a range of effective interventions, including preventive, educational, and clinical approaches. She provides practical guidance for helping family members deal constructively with the differing attachments of children to their biological parents and stepparents, assisting stepparents as they cope with feeling excluded from the powerful biological parent-child bond, and guiding biological parents torn between their spouse's need for intimacy and privacy and their children's needs for support and attention.
