Writing First with Readings Laurie G. Kirszner,Stephen R.

Mandell,2011-12-28 Best selling authors and veteran college writing instructors Laurie Kirszner and Stephen Mandell believe that students learn to write best when they use their own writing as a starting point In Writing First with Readings Practice in Context designed for the paragraph to essay course Kirszner and Mandell take seriously the ideas and expressive abilities of developmental students as well as their need to learn the rules of writing and grammar Visual writing prompts that open every chapter get students writing immediately By moving frequently between their own writing writing models and instruction and workbook style mastery exercises students get constant reinforcement of the skills they are learning

Thoughtful chapters on college success research and critical reading along with high interest essays round out the text

Assessment in Higher Education Clifford Adelman,1986

Making the Grade Martin V.

Covington,1992-04-24 Achievement behaviour in schools can best be understood in terms of attempts by students to maintain a positive self image For many students trying hard is frightening because a combination of effort and failure implies low ability which is often equated with worthlessness Thus many students described as unmotivated are in actuality highly motivated not to learn but to avoid failure Students have a variety of techniques for avoiding failure ranging from cheating to setting low goals which are easily achieved In Making the Grade Martin Covington extracts powerful educational implications from self worth theory and other contemporary views of motivation that will be useful for everyone concerned with the educational dilemmas we face He provides a comprehensive insightful review of research and theory both contemporary and historical on the topic of achievement motivation and arranges this knowledge in ways that lead to imminently practical recommendations for restructuring schools

Shaping the Learning Curve Franklin G. Mixon Jr., Franklin Mixon Jr., 2005 This edited volume contains a collection of essays that reflect a broad area of economic education inquiry ranging from teaching assessment to the philosophy of the classroom Written by economics scholars from across the nation this volume presents recent discoveries in presentation assessment and other aspects of economic education at colleges and universities in the U S These articles represent but a sample of the growing commentary among academics on the importance of effective teaching and economic education scholarship

Designing Globally Networked Learning Environments, 2008-01-01 Faculty administrators and others in higher education face growing pressures to position their institutions programs and courses in global markets and to prepare students for global work and citizenship These pressures raise urgent questions What might higher education look like in a globally networked world Do traditional industrial models of learning suffice or what new visions for learning are emerging

What does it take to implement and maintain these visions To address these questions Designing Globally Networked Learning Environments brings together 25 educators from four continents who share their richly diverse visions for teaching and learning in a globally networked world What unites these visions is that they break with traditional models of repackaging traditional institutionally bounded courses for online delivery in global markets Instead these educators build robust partnerships to design globally networked learning environments that connect students with peers instructors and communities across traditional institutional national and other boundaries to facilitate the kind of cross boundary knowledge making that students as professionals and citizens will need to participate in the shaping of an emerging global order and to address the most pressing global problems we face The book offers these visions as opportunities for faculty program directors administrators international program experts instructional designers faculty development experts and others in higher education to work together to deliberate develop and shape inspiring visions for globally networked learning and to become active participants in the globalization of higher education Statement ,1978 Resources in Education ,1995
