Difference and Discrimination in Psychotherapy and Counselling Sue Marshall, 2004-06-02

Prejudice is for good or ill a part of our nature It is instilled in us from birth onwards All we can hope to do is to combat it and the first tool in our armoury must be that of awareness Without this it is very difficult perhaps impossible for the psychotherapist or counsellor to explore how it might be influencing the psychotherapy relationship Sue Marshall has in this book performed a valuable task in that direction and has done in it very cogently in a most difficult area I applaud her

Joe Sinclair Nurturing Potential

Difference prejudice and discrimination are issues which all counsellors and psychotherapists need to address as part of their personal and professional development Designed to support training on these complex issues Difference Discrimination in Counselling Psychotherapy helps therapists understand the experience of discrimination as well as explore their own often unconscious attitudes to others based on gender sexuality race culture or mental health For most therapists an attitude of acceptance and non judgmentalism is fundamental to their view of practice However in seeking to be non judgmental therapists may run the risk of concealing their own prejudices It is only by facing up to these attitudes and exploring them that therapists are able to fully relate to their clients and help them effectively

Synthesising sociological knowledge with her experience of a practitioner Sue Marshall powerfully demonstrates both the importance and the practicalities of developing awareness about difference

Difference Discrimination in Counselling Psychotherapy offers a straightforward approach to some of the most difficult issues relating to practice making it an ideal text for use in training and for qualified therapists continuing their professional development
