professional dog photographer Louisa Datchett has decided it's high time she snared herself a husband. Up until now she's been indiscriminately fond of men who've taken shocking advantage of her good nature. At age thirty Louisa is ready for someone to take care of her and sets out on her romantic quest in this New York Times bestseller. Brisk, bright, sly, engaging, a pleasure to read. Chicago Tribune. The Nutmeg Tree. Motherhood was never really free spirited. Julia Packett's thing. Following the loss of her husband in World War I, Julia turned to her well-heeled in-laws to raise her daughter. Now twenty, Susan invites her mother to France for the summer to persuade her grandmother to allow her to marry. When Julia arrives, she quickly sees that her proper daughter is mismatched with a playboy. And when Susan's distinguished legal guardian, Sir William Waring, shows up, romantic complications ensue. Original, subtle, and consistently entertaining. Kirkus Reviews. The Flowering Thorn. In 1929, London socialite Lesley Frewen impulsively decides to adopt an orphaned boy. Moving to the tiny village of High Westover, Lesley finds herself challenged by a whole new way of life and changed by a young boy who begins to awaken her capacity to love. To those who discovered Margery Sharp with The Nutmeg Tree, the reissue of this earlier novel will be good news. The city-bred country-won theme is handled with gay humor and enough of sentiment for general appeal. Kirkus Reviews. The Innocents. As World War II separates a three-year-old mentally challenged girl from her parents, a British spinster takes on the responsibility of raising her, and the two grow closer. But when the war is over and the girl's mother returns, Antoinette doesn't want to be separated from the only person who's ever really understood her. Marvelously crafted, believable, and heart-wrenching. Sharp is an incredibly perceptive writer. The Literary Sisters. Divine Science and the Science of God. Victor Preller, 2005-05-17. In this book, Victor Preller examines the logical status of religious language in the light of recent developments in American analytic philosophy. The problem inherent in religious language is presented in terms of the referential status of the word God. The author argues that the significance of any referential term is dependent upon the ability of that term to play a significant role within a unified conceptual system. The problem is shown to transcend the epistemological dogmas of Positivism and Conceptual Empiricism and to be inherent in any intelligible epistemology, including that of Thomas Aquinas, whose theological treatises serve as a model of religious language for the thesis of this book. According to Professor Preller, Divine Science, Aquinas' term for what we now call Natural Theology, results from a reflection upon the limitations encountered by the intellect in its attempt to render intelligible the objects of human experience. In the Science of God, Aquinas' term for that mode of knowing engendered by faith, the unknown meta-empirical referent of Divine Science becomes the object of the human intellect. While this study develops out of the discussions inaugurated by Flew and McIntyre in New Essays in Philosophical Theology, it rejects the excessively empirical approach of most other studies in that tradition. It applies post-positivistic analysis to specifically Catholic theological language, but it obviously applies to the theological language involved in any form of theism. The Angel at the Gate. Wilson Harris, 2013-03-21. What Wilson Harris is doing is to extend the boundaries of our very conception of fiction. Robert Nye. First published in 1982 The Angel at the Gate is offered to readers as Wilson Harris's analysis and interpretation of the automatic writing of Mary Stella Holiday an assumed name for the secretary and patient of the late Father Joseph Marsden Mary suffered from a physical and nervous malaise as The Angel at the Gate makes clear Through Marsden the medical care he arranged for her and the sessions he provided in Angel Inn which gave scope to her automatic talents that illness became a catalyst of compassion through which she penetrated layers of social and psychical deprivation to create a remarkable fictional life for Stella apart from Mary in order to unravel the thread that runs through a diversity of association in past and present fictional lives From Harris's introductory Note
