New Trends in Architectural Education Ashraf Salama,1995 Programming Interior Environments Cynthia Karpan,2019-11-21 Programming Interior Environments introduces a four component framework you can use to program interiors and twelve methods for you to gather analyze and synthesize programmatic information to take the guesswork out of your studio projects This book studies the Student Programming Model a realistic programming process for college and university interior design students that allows students to create accurate and in depth programming documents essential for informing the design process This is done whilst keeping in mind that students are often working solo with imaginary clients and end users in mind and collecting program information within strict time constraints Including three appendices of student programs created following these guidelines to help you understand how to apply the framework components and inquiry methods in your own work this book is ideal for students and professionals in interior design and interior architecture

Open Architecture Curricular Design in World Language Education Andrew R. Corin,Betty Lou Leaver,Christine M. Campbell,2025 A guide to a textbook free approach to world languages curriculums that will improve learning outcomes Open architecture curricular design OACD is a textbook free curricular design framework for teaching and learning world languages that integrates all the best practices in world language education to enhance learning efficiency and effectiveness As editors and pioneers of this method Corin Leaver and Campbell define OACD for world language instructors and second language acquisition researchers from middle school through higher education and beyond The book s chapters demonstrate how to use OACD for a wide variety of languages and proficiency levels in government service academy and university programs Topics covered include the use of authentic texts at all levels learner involvement in the selection of content and activities and methods of assessment and program evaluation Linking Architecture and Education Anne

Taylor,2009-05-16 For the past forty years Anne Taylor has studied how schools classrooms playgrounds homes museums and parks affect children and how they learn As a result she has developed a holistic sustainable philosophy of learning environment design She argues persuasively that architects must integrate their design knowledge with an understanding of the developmental needs of learners while at the same time educators parents and students must broaden their awareness of the built natural and cultural environment to maximize the learning experience In other words schools and other environments can themselves become three dimensional textbooks When architects are cognizant of newer models of education and educators view the environment as more than a box in which to teach prescribed lessons the result is an informed architecture that enables children to discover the power of their own learning The book presents numerous examples of dynamic designs that are the result of interdisciplinary understanding of place Taylor includes designer perspectives forums derived from commentary by outside contributors involved in school planning and a wealth of photographs of thoughtful and effective solutions to create learning environments from comprehensive design criteria Because the concept of school is enlarged to a community campus the book also spawns a new model of teaching and learning This book is essential reading for educators architects and community members who are anxious to transform education in America and elsewhere Anne Taylor is the most outstanding educator leading proponent and practitioner in the three dimensional textbook field Her work is the finest resource available for connecting students young and old to their learning environments and visa versa Edward E Kirkbride NCARB REFP Before Western man divided the universe into discrete subject matter areas the order in the universe was and still is both interdisciplinary and holistic The branching of trees spiraling of shells meandering of streams and the radial designs of flowers for example represent an analogy of mathematics biology and art The current artificial separation of subject matter is in contrast to the way the world is constructed and the way children perceive it Architecture and the study of the built natural and cultural environment synthesize the world of material things and the world of ideas Further more it helps us to realize that we are a part of not apart from the environment This book is a tool and a gift to designers educators and students everywhere to assist them in seeing the meaning behind all that we view and use for living on earth To know our precious relationship to our surroundings is the intent of this book In this way life is a work of art and each of us is an artist Anne Taylor Resources in Education
