Researching the Art of Teaching Peter Woods, 2013-09-27 This book is a follow up to Inside Schools. It reviews the position of ethnography in educational research in the light of current issues and of the author's own research over the past ten years. Starting from an analysis of teaching as science and as art, Peter Woods goes on to review the general interactionist framework in which his own work is situated and how this relates to postmodernist trends in qualitative research. The approach is illustrated through reference to the author's own personal history and research career and his recent research on creative teaching, critical events and his teachers' reactions to school inspections. How to represent such research is a central feature and includes a consideration of the tools used in that task and how they relate to the ethnographer's self. Whatever forms of representation are selected, however, the audience's own concerns will guide them in their interpretation of the work. Prominent themes include the person of the ethnographer in research, the art of teaching and new ways of representing it, while not forgetting the science of teaching and of research, research for educational use and the uses of educational research, collaborative work between researchers and teachers. The issues covered include such matters as research purposes, research design, research careers, access, data collection, data analysis, truth criteria, the relationship between theory and research methods, writing up and dissemination.

Ehren, 2016-04-05 This book provides an overview and discussion of the evidence base of effective school inspections, reflecting on issues of validity and reliability of school inspections in relation to school effectiveness research, unintended consequences and emergent roles and responsibilities of Inspectorates of Education. Chapters include findings from systematic literature reviews and primary research, while also presenting a range of practical examples from inspections systems from all over the world. The book provides relevant background materials for Inspectorates of Education who aim to improve the effectiveness of their systems and working methods as well as clear examples for researchers aiming to analyse and understand the effectiveness of these systems. The final chapter reflects on changes in the current education landscape and discusses newer models of school inspections that fit within a more decentralized inspection system.
