Teaching Lives Essays And Stories:

Teaching Lives Wendy Bishop, 1997 In Teaching Lives Wendy Bishop gathers twenty three of her own critical essays from diverse sources and sets them in the context of her current thinking about composition and teaching Individually these essays address a range of critical and pedagogical issues in the teaching of writing As a collection they represent Bishop's best work and make a coherent accessible statement from a prominent scholar at mid career This portable Bishop then will give readers in one volume what has been unique about Bishop's prolific contribution to composition studies since the mid 1980s Pedagogically process and response oriented she advocates invention based exploratory writing for students at all levels As a researcher her approach is ethnographic And in her work with new teachers she encourages self study teacher research and reflection as a means toward an informed professional stance Teaching Lives combines her interest in composition literature research and creative writing and explores the connections among them Above all throughout this important work Bishop affirms and celebrates teaching the teacher's life and living a life in teaching

Writers Without Borders Lynn Z. Bloom, 2008-07-02 In Writers Without Borders Writing and Teaching Writing in Troubled Times Lynn Z. Bloom presents groundbreaking research on the nature of essays and on the political philosophical ethical and pragmatic considerations that influence how we read write and teach them in times troubled by terrorism transgressive students and uses and abuses of the Internet Writers Without Borders reinforces Bloom's reputation for presenting innovative and sophisticated research with a writer's art and a teacher's heart Each of the eleven essays addresses in its own way the essay itself as one way to live and learn with others

Against Creative Writing Andrew Cowan, 2022-09-13 The rise of Creative Writing has been accompanied from the start by two questions can it be taught and should it be taught This scepticism is sometimes shared even by those who teach it who often find themselves split between two contradictory identities the artistic and the academic Against Creative Writing explores the difference between writing which is what writers do and Creative Writing which is the instrumentalisation of what writers do Beginning with the question of whether writing can or ought to be taught it looks in turn at the justifications for BA MA and PhD courses and concludes with the divided role of the writer who teaches It argues in favour of Creative Writing as a form of hands on literary education at undergraduate level and a form of literary apprenticeship at graduate level especially in widening access to new voices It argues against those forms of Creative Writing that lose sight of literary values as seen in the proliferation of curricular couplings with non literary subjects or the increasing emphasis on developing skills for future employment Against Creative Writing written by a writer is addressed to other writers inside or outside the academy at undergraduate or graduate level whether creative or critical of applying particular methods and what might researchers be overlooking These questions and more are answered by the writing research field's leading scholars in Writing Studies Research in Practice Methods and Methodologies Editors Nickoson and Sheridan gather twenty chapters from leaders in writing research spanning topics from ethical considerations for researchers quantitative methods and activity analysis to interviewing and communitybased and Internet research While each chapter addresses a different subject the volume as a whole covers the range of methodologies technologies and approaches both old and new that writing researchers use and examines the ways in which contemporary writing research is understood practiced and represented An essential reference for experienced researchers and an invaluable tool to help novices understand research methods and methodologies Writing Studies Research in Practice includes established methods and knowledge while addressing the contemporary issues interests and concerns faced by writing researchers today

Power and Identity in the Creative Writing Classroom Anna Leahy, 2005-01-01 Power and Identity In the Creative Writing Classroom remaps theories and practices for teaching creative writing at university and college level This collection critiques well established approaches for teaching creative writing in all genres and builds a comprehensive and adaptable pedagogy based on issues of authority power and identity A long needed reflection this book shapes creative writing pedagogy for the 21st century

Self-Development and College Writing Nick Tingle, 2004-09 Nick Tingle investigates the psychoanalytic dimensions of composition instruction in Self Development and College Writing to boldly illustrate that mastering academic prose requires students to develop psychologically as well as cognitively Asserting that writing instruction should be an engaging developmental process for both teachers and students he urges reaching for new levels of consciousness in the classroom to aid students in realigning their subjective relationships with knowledge and truth Drawing on psychoanalytic theory and twenty years of experience as a teacher Tingle outlines the importance of moving beyond usual ways of thinking abandoning the common sense of everyday reality and coming to understand beliefs as beliefs and not absolutes These developmental moves must be accompanied Tingle says by a new attitude towards language not as something that points to things but as a series of concepts that arrange the very things one points to And this development is necessary not just in order to perform well in the writing class but also to fully participate in and reap the academic rewards of structured university life Self Development and College Writing calls attention to the psychological destabilization this method may produce for students Tingle explains that if writing instructors are to respond to this destabilization they must conceive of the classroom as a transitional space or a kind of holding environment They must also become aware of their psychological allegiances to particular theories of writing if they are to construct such environments But the goal of the transitional environment is worth pursuing Tingle argues contending that university education fails to address students developmental needs With purposeful writing and deft analyses Tingle shows that this goal also affords a means by which to place writing courses at the center of the educational curriculum Conceived as a transitional space the writing class may support and stabilize students in their developmental passage thereby fostering an improved understanding of their academic work and more importantly an increased intellectual understanding of themselves and the complex world in which they live

Compelling Confessions Suzanne Diamond,2010-12-10 Compelling Confessions The Politics of Personal Disclosure is a collection of essays whose shared purpose is to offer an accessible interdisciplinary exploration of the social dynamics behind confessional discourse As various contributors to this collection demonstrate confession is ubiquitous in contemporary culture not only within psychological or therapeutic frameworks or literary analysis but also in internet discussion groups in the criminal justice system in political rhetoric in so called reality and interview style television programming in writing pedagogy and increasingly in the testimonial strain observable in contemporary scholarship Yet telling one s story raises questions not only about authorial intent or authenticity but also about the pressures disclosure can impose upon its audiences Far less ubiquitous than confessions themselves as these contributors suggest are the critical tools that general audiences might employ in order to better evaluate the rhetoric of personal disclosure It is in fact the shortage of such tools responses and procedures that could be stated plainly and implemented by any reader or viewer that Compelling Confessions sets out to address

Composition Studies in the New Millennium Lynn Z. Bloom,Donald A. Daiker,Edward Michael White,2003 Interrogating Privilege Stephanie Vandrick,2009-10-23 Interrogating Privilege is a welcome combination of personal essays and academic research blending theory analysis and narrative to explore the function and consequences of privilege in second language education While teachers focus on the learning process and class goals are quite important there is not enough attention paid to the types of privilege or lack thereof that individuals bring to the classroom Through chapters that can either stand alone or be read together with topics such as gender age and colonialism the author is the daughter of missionary parents in second language teaching this book seeks to address the experiences of teachers scholars and students as whole persons and to observe the workings of identity and privilege in the educational setting Yoga Minds, Writing Bodies Christy I. Wenger,2015-05-01 This book argues for the inclusion of Eastern influenced contemplative education in writing studies as a means of exploring the active engagement writers maintain with their bodies throughout the composing process It explores how this engagement can be navigated by integrating yoga and mediation into the instruction and practice of writing
