Teaching Early Years Amanda Thomas, Karen McInnes, 2017-10-23 This textbook focuses on the main areas of teaching young children covering the 3-7 years age range that spans the early years and primary phases. The majority of chapters are written by both an academic and practitioner reflecting a genuine theory and practice approach and this helps the reader to set theoretical discussion in the context of real practice. Key themes explored within the book include Play and playfulness in the curriculum, Child development in practice, Literacy development and subject pedagogy, Creativity and outdoor learning. Packed full of learning features such as case studies, reflective questions and lesson plans, Teaching Early Years is an essential resource for both students and practitioners and will enhance your knowledge of how young children think and learn.

Indicators and Instruments in the Context of Inquiry-Based Science Education Jana Heinz, Katrin Lipowski, Alexander Gröschner, 2012 This report documents indicators and instruments in the context of inquiry based science education (IBSE). It is embedded in a project that aims at disseminating inquiry based science teaching on a large scale across Europe. Recent research about IBSE is rather specific to individual research questions and focuses on single aspects of IBSE. Furthermore, the instruments and indicators underlying the different studies are predominately not systematically covered. In this report, single indicators and instruments in the context of science education are brought together. Thereby, a coherent database and a link to different research results are presented. The indicators and instruments in this report originate from a systematic literature review about IBSE from 2005-2009. To receive a comprehensive picture about research on IBSE, the scope of this review contains instructional aspects, 1. implementation areas of politics, stakeholders, 2. and teacher education and teacher professional development, 3. This report contributes to supplying a systematic overview about instruments and indicators in the field of IBSE. It addresses researchers, politicians and stakeholders, teacher educators and teachers who are interested in methods of research and dissemination in the context of science education and IBSE.

The Meaning of Infant Teachers' Work Linda Evans, Angie Packwood, S.R. St. J. Neill, R.J. Campbell, 2005-09-26 Teachers of the youngest children at school were the first to bear the brunt of the policies to change the curriculum after the 1988 Education Act. What did the changes mean to them? How did they perceive their impact upon their work on standards in the curriculum, on assessment and testing, and on their relationships with pupils and colleagues? How did they cope with stress, long working hours, intrusions into their home lives, and with change imposed from outside? The authors capture in detail the views of thirty infant teachers and compare their subjective perceptions dominated by a sense of massive change with the objective record of both continuities and changes in their work.
