At the latest, since Michael Porter's study on the competitiveness of nations, the same criterion holds even for the evaluation of entire countries and national economies. Despite the innumerable number of publications and recommendations on innovation, competitive innovativeness is still a rare competency. The latest publication of UNICE, the European Industry Organization representing 20 million large, midsize, and small companies, speaks a clear language: Europe qualifies to roughly 60%–70% of the innovation strength of the US. Japan. The record unemployment in many EU countries does not contradict this message. A main reason may be given by the fact that becoming an innovative organization means increased openness towards the new and more tolerance towards risks and failures, both challenging the inherently difficult management art of cultural change. Further, lacking innovativeness is often related to legal and fiscal barriers which rather hinder than foster innovative activities. Yet another reason to explain Europe's notorious innovation gap refers to insufficient financial R&D resources on the company as well as on the national level. As a result, for example, high-ranking decisions on the level of the European Commission are taken to increase R&D expenditures in the European Union from roughly 2% to 3% of GNP. Competitive Intelligence, Analysis and Strategy Sheila Wright, 2014-07-10 The Holy Grail for most organisations is the successful attainment and retention of inimitable competitive advantage This book addresses the question of how to leverage the unique intangible assets of an organisation its explicit implicit acquired and derived knowledge The refreshingly innovative concept of Intelligence Based Competitive Advantage is one which will eclipse the cost driven and resource reduction attitudes most prevalent in the first decade of this century Tomorrow s organisation will need to derive IBCA through the expert execution of bespoke competitive intelligence practice unique analytical processes pioneering competitive strategy formulation and timely execution of all three if they are to succeed This volume consists of insights from Competitive Intelligence practices at both country and organisational level Competitive Analysis processes within the firm and within challenging sector and economic environments and Competitive Strategy formulation in profit non profit real and virtual world contexts It is essential reading for anybody wishing to gain a formal understanding of the practical and intellectual challenges which will face organisations in the future as they strive to achieve strategic foresight and Intelligence Based Competitive Advantage This book was originally published as two special issues of the Journal of Strategic Marketing
