Technology Transfer and Development A Bibliographic Sourcebook compiles references one can use in studying transnational corporations and related topics The compilation divides various source materials into eight major themes The sourcebook presents publications on the development of science and technology the International Technology Gap and the NIEO and transnational corporations and technology The other groups of publications compiled mainly focus on the anatomy of corporate technology transfer technology transfer and host countries and sectoral analysis wherein several case studies are included The last two sets of reference materials are concerned with technology transfer and the home country and its regulation This sourcebook will be invaluable to those in need of lists of reference materials on transnational corporations

The International Transfer of Technology Richard D. Robinson, 1988 Robinson's overview of the topic includes definitions and measures a discussion of modes of transfer a model of supply and demand and an analysis of government intervention Notes but no bibliography Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR      Technology Transfer Practice International Firms Frank R. Bradbury, 1978      Technology Transfer in International Business Tamir Agmon, Mary Ann Von Glinow, 1991-08-01 This important collection examines the means by which technological knowledge is transferred from countries that develop it to those who need it Written by well known authorities and derived from a conference held at the University of California and sponsored by IBEAR International Business Education Research Program the contributions focus on the transfer of technology from Western countries to Asian countries      The International Trade Policy for Technology Transfers Yi Shin Tang, 2009-01-01 This book provides a robust guideline to both policymakers and researchers wishing to identify and categorize the factors that influence the process of technology flows across national boundaries as well as the economic theories and legal arguments that may support a given position in international forums In particular the work discusses how certain negotiation strategies may optimally deal with such barriers and lead to more effective institutional arrangements in the current global geography of technological development      Multinational Companies, Knowledge and Technology Transfer Alper Sönmez, 2013-12-18 This book provides evidence on how FDI leads to knowledge and technology transfers towards domestic firms by paying attention to the role of multinational companies The author presents a comprehensive empirical research conducted at firm level in the Turkish automotive industry Using a representative sample of face to face in depth interviews with top executives and a survey of top level managers of domestic suppliers the research analyzes the existence channels intensity and determinants and the kind of transfers that occur at both inter and intra firm level in the industry The author contends that policies aimed at attracting FDI flows should be re examined under the findings and insights of this study since it is a necessary although not sufficient condition to have an efficient absorptive capacity level and or skilled human capital stock in order to benefit from these flows This study has policy implications for the automotive industry as well as practical recommendations for the public institutions and top executives in emerging country companies and multinationals in order to conceive and implement science and technology policies in supporting the knowledge transfers

Low-carbon Technology Transfer

David G. Ockwell, Alexandra Mallett, 2012-12-12 Low carbon technology transfer to developing countries has been both a lynchpin of and a key stumbling block to a global deal on climate change This book brings together for the first time in one place the work of some of the world s leading contemporary researchers in this field It provides a practical empirically grounded guide for policy makers and practitioners while at the same time making new theoretical advances in combining insights from the literature on technology transfer and the literature on low carbon innovation The book begins by summarizing the nature of low carbon technology transfer and its contemporary relevance in the context of climate change before introducing a new theoretical framework through which effective policy mechanisms can be analyzed The north south developed developing country differences and synergies are then introduced together with the relevant international policy context Uniquely the book also introduces questions around the extent to which current approaches to technology transfer under the international policy regime might be considered to be pro poor Throughout the book draws on cutting edge empirical work to illustrate the insights it affords The book concludes by setting out constructive ways forward towards delivering on existing international commitments in this area including practical tools for decision makers
