Larson, 1988 This document explores the impact of television coverage on foreign policy decision making and the complexities of a changing media foreign policy relationship in an era of global television Government officials believe that television news has a great effect on foreign policy decisions By contrast many political scientists contend that television is subject to government news management and conveys an elite view of U S overseas interests Television coverage and its potential impact on public opinion are factors to be planned and controlled in the implementation of foreign policy according to this perspective Chapter 1 explores television s role in the U S foreign policy process Chapter 2 delineates the rise of television news to its dominant position in the politics of foreign policy through the confluence of technology economics public reliance on television as a news source and a set of international concerns Chapter 3 discusses how foreign policy and international news should be defined and handled by broadcasters Chapter 4 outlines the advent of global television as a participant in the foreign policy process Chapter 5 examines whether or not the public influences foreign policy Chapter 6 elucidates the manner in which television s growing capacity as a channel for global communication will affect its relationship to the foreign policy process in the future This issue concludes with student and community discussion questions and resources SM Television's Window on the World James F.

Larson, 1984 This volume examines U S network television coverage of international news based on experiences of the past decade First it describes significant patterns and trends in the international affairs content of network news during the decade from 1972 1981 including story formats visual and audio techniques and trends in the amount and nature of coverage given to nations and regions of the world Second it examines major influences that shape international news content on network television including satellite technology electronic newsgathering and the global distribution of foreign correspondents Television News and Human Rights in the US & UK Shawna M. Brandle, 2015-12-22 Does the CNN Effect exist Political communications scholars have debated the influence of television news coverage on international affairs since television news began especially in relation to the coverage of massive human rights violations These debates have only intensified in the last 20 years as new technologies have changed the nature of news and the news cycle But despite frequent assertion little research into the CNN Effect or whether television coverage of human rights violations causes state action exists Bridging across the disciplines of human right studies comparative politics and communication studies in a way that has not been done this book looks at television news coverage of human rights in the US and UK to answer the question of whether the CNN Effect actually exists Examining the human rights content in television news in the US and UK yields insights to what television news producers and policy makers consider to be human rights and what if anything audiences can learn about human rights from watching television news After reviewing 20 years of footage using three different types of content analyses of American television news broadcasts and two different types of British news broadcasts and comparing those results with human rights rankings and print news coverage of human rights Shawns M Brandle concludes that despite rhetoric from both countries in support of human rights there is not enough coverage of human rights in either country to argue that television media can spur state action on human rights issues More simply the violations will not be televised A welcome and timely book presenting an important examination of human rights coverage on television news Global Television and the Shaping of World Politics Royce J. Ammon,2001-08-31 In 1995 United Nations Secretary General Boutros Boutros Ghali said of the Cable News Network CNN is the sixteenth member of the 15 member United Nations Security Council Scholars as well as diplomats have recognized the existence of a link between communications and diplomacy but up until now the implications of this relationship have been left unexplored This work examines the historic interconnectedness between communications and diplomacy how communications have historically determined the practice of diplomacy and how global television in particular can determine diplomatic outcomes under certain conditions This work also examines the ways in which today s broadcasting will shape foreign policy processes in the future and the future impact of global television in world politics Global Information and World Communication Hamid Mowlana,1997-02-24 The new edition of this major work offers a comprehensive analysis of international communication systems and the global flow of information Hamid Mowlana places the analysis of global mass media and other forms of communication within a critical overview of international and intercultural relations Extensively rewritten and revised Global Information and World Communication deals with the phenomenon of global information flow in all contexts political economic cultural technological legal and professional Mowlana illustrates how different communication strategies and systems have contributed to the creation of powerful interests and have altered the global scene He takes into account recent events and shows how these have challenged basic assumptions and theories enabling the debate about communication and world society to embrace broader concepts of world politics information economy cultural ecology and international development technologies have made possible the transportation of images and words in real time to hundreds of millions of people around the world We thought we witnessed the Gulf War as we sat mesmerized by the imagery But the studies from the many countries assembled for this book suggest that it was not the war in the Persian Gulf that we witnessed but rather imagery orchestrated to convey a sense of triumph and thus to achieve results that reality and reason could never have achieved The book offers contributions from thirty five authors in eighteen countries including short samplings from the media of several regions The authors explore the social economic and political context of media coverage in their countries the domination of one image in most of them and the struggle for alternative perspectives The authors probe the dynamics of image making and pose some challenges for the future as well as provide us with a unique glimpse of how the world outside of the United States as well as many Americans viewed the war in the Persian Gulf and how the dynamics of image making and information control operate Triumph of the Image will be useful to scholars and students in communications and mass media international relations political science cultural studies propaganda censorship and contemporary history as well as to the general public
