Soviet Composers and the Development of Soviet Music

Stanley Dale Krebs,2024-11-26 Soviet Composers and the Development of Soviet Music 1970 is a thought provoking review of Soviet music and musicians The lives and works of some two dozen major Soviet composers are discussed and insight is provided into Soviet thinking about music and thinking about the arts

Realist Music Rena Moisenko,1949 Eight

Soviet Composers Gerald Abraham,1943 The author takes eight leading composers of the Soviet Union Shostakovich Prokofiev Khachaturyan Knipper Shebalin Shaporin Kabalevsky and Dzerzhinsky and describes their artistic careers mainly from a purely musical standpoint though at the same time showing how in some cases above all that of Shostakovich they have been affected by changes in the artistic policy of the Soviet Government As a non communist the author takes a detached though sympathetic view of Soviet musical culture His aim is less to criticize than to give information though criticism is by no means evaded Although the book does not pretend to describe the whole vast field of Russian music since the Revolution its account of representative figures and important compositions with plentiful music type examples conveys perhaps a clearer picture of what Soviet musicians are aiming at and achieving than could be obtained from a full and detailed survey involving a discussion of numerous minor figures
