Structural Adjustment Rural Labour Mar:

The Global Labour Market Roger Blanpain, Michele Tiraboschi, Pablo Arellano Ortiz, 2008-01-01 As global power relations increasingly favour international capital it becomes crucial for labour and employment lawyers to center their field in a supranational context As long as wages social security and taxes remain national matters states compete at this level in order to attract foreign investment This does not bode well for employees or the self employed Most ameliorative measures come in the form of unenforceable and soft law and guidelines and recommendations The conference recorded in this vitally important book confronts this losing battle of local responses to global challenges The book reprints the papers submitted to that conference by twenty three outstanding scholars from fourteen countries Among the many critical issues they expose and discuss are the following and the proliferation of varieties of non standard employment and protection of migrant workers and rights by regional organizations and global and regional trends in the human resources function and work training and education policy and effectiveness of equality and non discrimination standards and involvement of employees in workplace decisionmaking and the need for an equitable social safety net In the course of the discussion the authors examine cases from many countries including not only EU Member States both West and East and the U S but also Japan Chile South Africa and Indonesia With a focus on the nexus of multinational enterprises and international standards the book provides both a sharp image of where labour law stands in today and s world and revealing serious social problems in a clearer light than is usually encountered and a very valuable guide to directions to pursue and potential solutions offered by some of the most engaged and committed minds in the field It is an indispensable resource for legal workers in this and eye of the storm and of globalization

The Modernization of Labour Law and Industrial Relations in a Comparative Perspective Silvia Spattini, 2009-01-01 Not all labour law and industrial relations scholars agree on the efficacy of the comparative approach that the analysis of measures adopted in other countries can play a constructive role in national and local policy making However the case deserves to be heard and no better such presentation has appeared than this remarkable book the carefully considered work of over 40 well known authorities in the field from a wide variety of countries including Australia France India Israel Peru Poland and South Africa The volume contains papers delivered at a conference sponsored by the Marco Biagi Foundation at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia in March 2008

Labour Market Participation in India Arup Mitra, Aya Okada, 2017-11-16 This book focuses on the gender specific labour force participation rates across regions in India and identifies its most important determinants Before concentrating on the Indian context it examines the participation rates of various countries in the Asia Pacific region Not unexpectedly the study shows that the rate is significantly lower for females than for males in this region The rural urban differentials are more pronounced and the inter state variations are more sizable among females than males Even in large cities the female labour market participation is lower than that in the rural areas despite higher levels of education However in terms of inter spatial rural urban city variations the impact of infrastructure education health and urbanization on the labour force participation of both genders is quite distinct On the whole the study reinforces the stance that women s participation in productive activities has a doubly positive impact it not only raises the household income but also contributes to the wellbeing of the household These findings are important from a policy perspective as different infrastructure variables are confirmed to improve both participation and labour productivity As such the book offers a valuable resource not only for researchers but also for NGOs and policymakers

Labor markets in an era of adjustment ,1994 Research of the World Employment Programme Hans Wolfgang Singer,1992 Research is an important part of the World Employment Programme WEP but it must form part of a package including technical co operation policy advice and field work and must be policy oriented Labour Market Theory Ben Fine,2002-09-11 This book is a commanding assessment of labour market theory across the social sciences It provides a radically original critique of labour market theory which draws constructively but critically on existing literature The work contributes to the debates on key issues in labour economics such as unemployment gender equal pay and the minimum theory illustrates the policy implications in empirical studies supplements existing orthodox labour market theory texts

Adjustment, Employment and Labour Market Institutions in Sub-Saharan Africa in the 1990s Willem van der Geest,Ganeshan Wignaraja,1996 Rural Labour Relations in India T.J. Byres,Karin Kapadia,Jens Lerche,2013-10-18 This volume is about the emerging development trajectories of rural labour relations in India based on studies from its regions and states Its overarching theme is the rural class conflict and the results of such conflict and the link between this and the nature and impact of state intervention Vigorous emancipatory processes are identified and the limitations of and contradictions inherent in such processes are examined Both powerful general trends and significant regional variations are distinguished Report of the Director-General International Labour Office,International Labour Organisation,1990

Marx in the Field Alessandra Mezzadri,2021-02-15 Marx in the Field is a unique edited collection illustrating the relevance of the Marxian method to study contemporary capitalism and the global development process Essays in the collection bring Marx to the field in three ways They illustrate how Marxian categories can be concretely deployed for field research in the global economy they analyse how these categories may be adapted during fieldwork and they discuss data collection methods supporting Marxian analysis Crucially many of the contributions expand the scope of Marxian analysis by combining its insights with those of other intellectual traditions including radical feminisms critical realism and postcolonial studies The book defines the possibilities and challenges of fieldwork guided by Marxian analysis including those emerging from the COVID 19 pandemic The collection takes a global approach to the study of development and of contemporary capitalism While some essays focus on themes and geographical areas of long term concern for international development like informal or rural poverty and work across South Asia Southern and West Africa or South America others focus instead on actors benefitting from the development process like regional exporters larger farmers and traders or on unequal socio economic outcomes across richer and emerging economies and regions including Gulf countries North America Southern Europe or Post Soviet Central and Eastern Europe Some essays explore global processes cutting across the world economy connecting multiple regions actors and inequalities While some of the contributions focus on classic Marxian tropes in the study of contemporary capitalism like class labour and working conditions agrarian change or global commodity chains and prices others aim at demonstrating the relevance of the Marxian method beyond its traditional boundaries for instance for exploring the interplays between food nutrition and poverty the links between social reproduction gender and homework the features of migration and refugees regimes tribal chieftaincy structures or prison labour or the dynamics structuring global surrogacy Overall through the analysis of an extremely varied set of concrete settings and cases this book illustrates the extraordinary insights we can gain by bringing Marx in the field
