L. Jolliff, Mark A. Wieczorek, Charles K. Shearer, Clive R. Neal, 2018-12-17 Volume 60 of Reviews in Mineralogy and Geochemistry assesses the current state of knowledge of lunar geoscience given the data sets provided by missions of the 1990s and lists remaining key questions as well as new ones for future exploration to address. It documents how a planet or moon other than the world on which we live can be studied and understood in light of integrated suites of specific kinds of information. The Moon is the only body other than Earth for which we have material samples of known geologic context for study. This volume seeks to show how the different kinds of information gained about the Moon relate to each other and also to learn from this experience thus allowing more efficient planning for the exploration of other worlds. Aerospace Science, 1990. The Age of the Earth G. Brent Dalrymple, 1991 A synthesis of all that has been postulated and is known about the age of the Earth. The Moon and How to Observe It Peter Grego, 2005-12-16 This revolutionary new book is written for practical amateur astronomers who not only want to observe but want to know the details of exactly what they are looking at. The Moon is the most commonly observed of all astronomical objects. This is the first book to deal equally with the Moon itself its formation geology and history as well as the practical aspects of observation. The concept of the book and of the series is to present an up to date detailed description of the Moon including its origins history and geology part one and then part two to consider how best to observe and record it successfully using commercially available equipment. The Moon and How to Observe It is a mine of information for all levels of amateur observers from the beginner to the experienced. NASA Report to Educators, 1976. New View of the Moon 2 Clive R. Neal, Lisa R. Gaddis, Bradley L. Jolliff, Samuel J. Lawrence, Stephen J. Mackwell, Charles K. Shearer, Sarah N. Valencia, 2024-05-06 Much has happened in the world in the 17 years since the first New Views of the Moon was published as volume 60 of the Mineralogical Society of America in 2006. An exciting new era of lunar exploration has begun including the promise of resuming human lunar exploration exploring the lunar Poles and missions to many other high priority science targets. It is fitting therefore to now summarize the current state of knowledge to the degree possible at a time when advancements in knowledge of the Moon are proceeding at a breakneck pace. Therefore during this period of unprecedented lunar exploration activity and as we continue to rebound from a global pandemic we now happily announce this New Views of the Moon 2 volume summarizing the advances in lunar science and exploration since 2006. The Steering Committee is eternally grateful to all contributors and especially the chapter leads and to Professor Makiko Ohtake University of Aizu Japan and Dr David Blewett Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory U S A for organizing the New Views of the Moon 2 Electronic Annex. We deeply appreciate the hard work and dedication of everyone involved in the production of this volume especially Rachel Russell and Ian Swainson at the Mineralogical Society of America. This volume helps to frame our knowledge and expectations for an exciting future of lunar science and exploration and the new discoveries to be made. Having humans return to the Moon now seems more likely than it ever has since the last humans left the Moon on 14 December 1972. Aeronautics and Space Report of the President

In The Moon David Whitehouse explains how our nearest celestial neighbor was created and what moonrocks tell us of its earth shattering origins and how its existence may have been a crucial factor in mankind being here at all Whitehouse discusses how man has related to it worshipped it and blamed it for his own lunacy though can it really affect our behavior He tells how the first person to look at the moon through a telescope was not Galileo as is commonly believed but an Englishman who knew Shakespeare and had a part in the Gunpowder Plot While some of the story of the modern moon race may be known the first moon race to map its surface has not been charted before and is one of the most dramatic and unexpected stories in science The recent discovery of ice hidden in the moon s polar regions opens up new possibilities for space travel that mean it is essential that mankind returns there if we are ever to journey to the rest of the solar system
