Endress,2019-12-05 I try to convince my reader that Earth is so special and unique that it's worth saving I do this by starting out with space travel distance to other planets the very low likelihood of aliens visiting us The book comes in two sections first section is about the unlikelihood and difficulties of space travel the second section is about environmental damage and species endangerment We can't just pick up and move to another planet BBC Wildlife Documentaries in the Age of Attenborough Jean-Baptiste Gouyon,2019-09-13 This book explores the history of wildlife television in post war Britain It revolves around the role of David Attenborough whose career as a broadcaster and natural history filmmaker has shaped British wildlife television The book discusses aspects of Attenborough's professional biography and also explores elements of the institutional history of the BBC from the early 1960s when it was at its most powerful to the 2000s when its future is uncertain It focuses primarily on the wildlife making of documentary genre which is used to trace how television progressively became a participant in the production of knowledge about nature With the inclusion of analysis of television programmes first hand accounts BBC archival material and most notably interviews with David Attenborough this volume follows the development of the professional culture of wildlife broadcasting as it has been portrayed in public It will be of interest to wildlife television amateurs historians of British television and students in science communication Earth, Our Living Planet Philippe Bertrand, Louis Legendre, 2021-04-21 Earth is to our knowledge the only life bearing body in the Solar System This extraordinary characteristic dates back almost 4 billion years How to explain that Earth is teeming with organisms and that this has lasted for so long What makes Earth different from its sister planets Mars and Venus The habitability of a planet is its capacity to allow the emergence of organisms What astronomical and geological conditions concurred to make Earth habitable 4 billion years ago and how has it remained habitable since What have been the respective roles of non biological and biological characteristics in maintaining the habitability of Earth This unique book answers the above questions by considering the roles of organisms and ecosystems in the Earth System which is made of the non living and living components of the planet Organisms have progressively occupied all the habitats of the planet diversifying into countless life forms and developing enormous biomass over the past 3.6 billion years In this way organisms and ecosystems took over the Earth System and thus became major agents in its regulation and global evolution There was co evolution of the different components of the Earth System leading to a number of feedback mechanisms that regulated long term Earth conditions For millennia and especially since the Industrial Revolution nearly 300 years ago humans have gradually transformed the Earth System Technological developments combined with the large increase in human population have led in recent decades to major changes in the Earth's climate soils biodiversity and quality of air and water After some successes in the 20th century at preventing internationally environmental disasters human societies are now facing major challenges arising from climate change Some of these challenges are short term and others concern the thousand year evolution of the Earth's climate Humans should become the stewards of Earth Living Earth R.E. Nisbet, 2013-12-01 Life has shaped the Earth and the Earth has moulded the history of life That history the co evolution of our ancestors and their home has much to teach us about our place on the planet today We are part of the fabric of the biosphere As we change that fabric we would be wise to understand how our home was built Our planet is neither a hotel nor a colony It is not a place which life briefly inhabits during a transient occupation Instead it is our home designed by the deeds of our ancestors and suited to our own needs The history of life on Earth is held in the geological record which is composed of the rocks water and air that are available for study on the planet's surface. These rocks, the oceans, and the atmosphere are not simply stores of information for the excitement of fossil hunters and geochemists or resources to exploit without thought. Their creation and continued existence form an integral part of the development and management of the Earth as the home of life. Preserving the Living Earth Christine Petersen, 2012-01-15. In Environment at Risk, scientific principles, concepts, and methodologies in environmental science are explored and explained. Students will be led on a journey to understand the interrelationships of the natural world, identify and analyze environmental problems both natural and human-made, evaluate the relative risks associated with these problems, and examine alternative solutions for resolving or preventing them. Design for a Living Planet Michael Mehaffy and Nikos A. Salingaros, 2017-05-30. In this brief, accessible volume, the authors, an urban philosopher and a mathematician/physicist, explain the surprising new findings from the sciences that are beginning to transform environmental design in the modern era. Authors Michael Mehaffy and Nikos Salingaros explore fractals, networks, self-organization, dynamical systems, and other revolutionary ideas, describing them to non-science readers in a direct and engaging way. The book also examines fascinating new topics of design, including Agile, Wiki, Design Patterns, and other open-source approaches from the software world. The authors conclude that a profound transformation is under way in modern design, and today's students and practitioners will need to be aware of its implications for our future. Lucidly describes what's coming in the world of design and what needs to come. Ward Cunningham, Inventor of Wiki and pioneer of Pattern Languages of Programming, Agile, and Scrum. Essential reading for all urban designers. Jeff Speck, Author of Walkable City. Brilliant. Charles Montgomery, Author of Happy City. Inspired, compelling, and fascinating. Recognizes that a true architecture can be dug from the facts, insights, and theories that occur with a broadening of science to include the human being. Christopher Alexander, Author of A Pattern Language and Notes on the Synthesis of Form. Some comments on the individual chapters. Packed with detail and beautiful in presentation. Gil Friend, Human society must find a path of retreat. Salingaros and Mehaffy point the way. David Brussat, Providence Journal. Michael Mehaffy and Nikos Salingaros have written some brilliant articles on how we can co-create cities which are truly resilient rather than being engineered resilient. Smallworld Urbanism. For me, this essay was like a flash of insight, and I suddenly saw the world in a new light. Oeyvind Holmstad, Permaliv. We've just come across a very thoughtful article by Michael Mehaffy and Nikos Salingaros who draw a number of lessons from biological systems and use them to draw conclusions about how resilient human systems must be designed. Resilient Design Institute. Salingaros and Mehaffy take us from the configuration of city spaces to the order of cells in living beings. Jaap Dawson, Delft Institute of Technology. If you wanted to know where the cutting edge was in urban design, it is here. Patrick J. Kennedy, CarFreeInBigD. This is the single most intelligent and illuminating article I've seen on Archdaily in 3 years. N. Ming P. Ng, China. Michael Mehaffy is an urbanist and design theorist and a periodic visiting professor or adjunct in five graduate universities in four countries and three disciplines: architecture, urban planning, and philosophy, including the University of Oregon, US, and the
