The Rational Memory William Henry Groves, 1901 Making Memory Matter Lisa Saltzman, 2006-10-02 In an ancient account of painting's origins a woman traces the shadow of her departing lover on the wall in an act that anticipates future grief and commemoration Lisa Saltzman shows here that nearly two thousand years after this story was first told contemporary artists are returning to similar strategies of remembrance ranging from vaudevillian silhouettes and sepulchral casts to incinerated architectures and ghostly processions Exploring these artists work Saltzman demonstrates that their methods have now eclipsed painting and traditional sculpture as preeminent forms of visual representation She pays particular attention to the groundbreaking art of Krzysztof Wodiczko who is known for his projections of historical subjects Kara Walker who creates powerful silhouetted images of racial violence in American history and Rachel Whiteread whose work centers on making casts of empty interior spaces Each of the artists Saltzman discusses is struggling with the roles that history and memory have come to play in an age when any historical statement is subject to question and doubt In identifying this new and powerful movement she provides a framework for understanding the art of our time

Making Memory Alana M Vincent, 2014-11-27 The twentieth century has been called a century of horror Proof of that designation can be found in the vast and ever increasing volume of scholarly work on violence trauma memory and history across diverse academic disciplines This book demonstrates not only the ways in which the wars of the twentieth century have altered theological engagement and religious practice but also the degree to which religious ways of thinking have shaped the way we construct historical narratives Drawing on diverse sources from the Hebrew Bible to Commonwealth war graves from Greek tragedy to post Holocaust theology Alana M Vincent probes the intersections between past and present memory and identity religion and nationality The result is a book that defies categorization and offers no easy answers but instead pursues an agenda of theological realism holding out continued hope for the restoration of the world

Commemorating and Forgetting Martin J. Murray, 2013-04-25 When the past is painful as riddled with violence and injustice as it is in postapartheid South Africa remembrance presents a problem at once practical and ethical how much of the past to preserve and recollect and how much to erase and forget if the new nation is to ever unify and move forward The new South Africa's confrontation of this dilemma is Martin J Murray's subject in Commemorating and Forgetting More broadly this book explores how collective memory works how framing events persons and places worthy of recognition and honor entails a selective appropriation of the past not a mastery of history How is the historical past made to appear in the present In addressing these questions Murray reveals how collective memory is stored and disseminated in architecture statuary monuments and memorials literature and art landscapes of remembrance that selectively recall and even fabricate history in the service of nation building He examines such vehicles of memory in postapartheid South Africa and parses the stories they tell stories by turn sanitized distorted embellished and compressed In this analysis Commemorating and Forgetting marks a critical move toward recognizing how the legacies and impositions of white minority rule far from being truly past remain embedded in intertwined with and imprinted on the new nation's here and now

Traumatic Storytelling and Memory in Post-Apartheid South Africa Christopher J. Colvin, 2018-12-14 This book explores the practice of traumatic storytelling that emerged out of the South African Truth and Reconciliation Commission and came to play a key role in the lives of the members of the Khulumani Support Group for victims of apartheid era political violence Group members found traumatic storytelling both frustrating and yet also an important form of memory work that shaped how they saw themselves in the post apartheid era Drawing on ethnographic fieldwork the author examines how traumatic storytelling functioned not only as a kind of psychological healing and national political theatre but also as a potent form of social relation economic exchange political activism and expressive practice With emphasis on the personal social and political significance of the act of traumatic storytelling this volume asks why members of Khulumani despite their many disappointments continued to engage intensively in storying their experiences for themselves and others Examining what powers storytelling held for both group members and their witnesses and considering the ways in which storytelling enabled new senses of self and new understandings of what was possible in the years after the end of apartheid this book considers what we might learn more broadly from the experiences of Khulumani about the possibilities and limits of traumatic memory making as an instrument of personal social and political repair As such it will appeal to scholars of sociology anthropology and criminology with interest in justice and post conflict societies     Tributes to the Memory of Rev. Dr. Alexander Kohut ,1894     The Education Gazette of the Province of the Cape of Good Hope Cape of Good Hope (South Africa). Education Department,1905     Collective Remembering Ludmila Isurin,2017-06-06 This interdisciplinary study explores collective memory as it is presented by official producers such as textbooks and media and reflected by consumers group members Focusing on a case study of Russians and Russian immigrants to the USA and their memories of seminal events in the twentieth century Russian collective past Isurin shows how autobiographical memory contributes to the formation of collective memory and also examines how the memory of the shared past is reconstructed by those who stayed with the group and those who left By bringing together historical anthropological and psychological approaches Collective Remembering provides a new theoretical framework for memory studies that incorporates both content analysis of texts and empirical data from human participants thus demonstrating that methodologies from the humanities and the social sciences can complement each other to create a better understanding of how memory works in the world and in the mind     The University of Missouri Bulletin ,1925     In Memory of Robert Curtis Ogden Henry Elias Fries,1916     An Anthology of Recent Philosophy Daniel Sommer Robinson,1929
