Intelligibility, Tones and Young Beginner Learners of Mandarin Chinese Robert Neal, 2025-03-12 Two decades ago Mandarin Chinese seemed set to become a mainstream school subject in Anglophone settings Yet current learning outcomes are generally disappointing Is Chinese too difficult for learners at this level Should it be left to the posh kids with pushy parents Set within the context of teaching and learning Chinese at an inner city secondary school in the North of England and adopting a case study research design this book aims to develop research informed insights into the nature of the pronunciation challenges facing beginner learners of Chinese While existing research has shown that producing native like tones is difficult for Anglophone learners the question of how important tones are for intelligibility has been largely ignored Do heavily accented tones actually matter Which specific areas of the learners speech signal mislead their listeners How aware are learners of their own pronunciation errors Teachers of Chinese may not be able to solve entrenched geopolitical tensions but we can lay the foundations for a stronger engagement with China through excellent teaching However before authoritative pedagogical interventions can be made far more understanding is required of not only how adolescent beginners learn Chinese in school settings but also what can be realistically expected of them

The Logic of Chinese Characters: Mnemonic Method for Learning Chinese Characters Jonathan Contreras Espinoza, 2024-02-28

The Logic of Chinese Characters Mnemonic Method for Learning Chinese Characters is a manual designed to facilitate the memorization and understanding of Chinese characters This innovative method employs various pedagogical techniques that make learning to read Chinese characters accessible to anyone Below are some of the techniques used

Sorting characters by frequency of use The book begins by teaching the most common and widely used characters so that students can quickly identify the majority of characters in various texts and contexts such as newspapers books the internet etc

Teaching pictographic characters Teaching characters that graphically represent objects is prioritized such as K u meaning mouth R n meaning man R meaning sun and Hu meaning fire These characters are easier to recognize and remember due to their visual nature

Teaching associative characters or compound ideograms The formation of characters through the combination of two or more ideographic characters is explored This approach uses historical data and imagination to make learning more interesting and natural For example the character M ng meaning bright is formed by combining R representing the sun and Yu representing the moon the two brightest celestial bodies in the sky Another example is M ng meaning bird s voice or chirp formed by the combination of K u meaning mouth and Ni o meaning bird

Teaching new vocabulary derived from the combination of learned characters explaining the logic behind the union of these disyllabic words formed by two or even more characters For example consider the character M o meaning hair and the character B meaning writing instrument Their combination gives rise to the word M ob Another illustrative case is the word Sh uj which translates as mobile phone This word results from the union of Sh u meaning hand and j meaning machine Therefore the literal translation would be machine of the hand which makes a lot of sense especially today as we always carry the mobile phone in our hand

Use of simple language and visual support The book employs clear explanations and simple language to ensure understanding In addition illustrations are used to motivate the retention of characters making learning more visual and engaging

In summary The Logic of Chinese Characters offers a comprehensive and user friendly approach to learning the Chinese language s writing system providing students with the necessary tools to effectively remember and understand characters
