The Man Who Invented Fiction William Egginton,2017-01-10 A heroic history of novel reading itself The Atlantic In the early seventeenth century a crippled graying almost toothless veteran of Spain s wars against the Ottoman Empire published a book It was the story of a poor nobleman his brain addled from reading too many books of chivalry who deludes himself that he is a knight errant and sets off on hilarious adventures That book Don Quixote went on to sell more copies than any other book beside the Bible making its author Miguel de Cervantes the single most read author in human history Cervantes did more than just publish a bestseller though He invented a way of writing This book is about how Cervantes came to create

what we now call fiction and how fiction changed the world The Man Who Invented Fiction explores Cervantes's life and the world he lived in showing how his influences converged in his work and how his work especially Don Quixote radically changed the nature of literature and created a new way of viewing the world Finally it explains how that worldview went on to infiltrate art politics and science and how the world today would be unimaginable without it William Egginton has brought thrilling new meaning to an immortal novel
