Environmental Movements in Asia Arne Kalland,Gerard Persoon,2013-10-31 This volume paints a general picture of the environmental situation in Asia backing it up with several case studies Two major points are made in this general picture The first is that environmental campaigns in Asia tend to have a local focus they react to very concrete problems in the immediate neighbourhood and as such usually people are engaged in a cause for practical rather than idealistic reasons Such can be seen in case studies from the volume dealing with campaigns against logging and tree plantations tourist facilities and factories and in support or defence of nature reserves This pattern is in marked contrast to the profile of the most successful Western movements in terms of fund raising at least for whom the focus is on perceived problems in distant parts of the world The second point is evidence in several of the case studies in the volume namely that environmental campaigns cannot be understood in terms of environmental issues alone Rather they should be regarded as a form of cultural critique and frequently are a form of political resistance in situations where open political action is too risky Environmental

Scenario in India Sacchidananda Mukherjee,Debashis Chakraborty,2013-06-17 India has moved along an impressive growth path over the last decade marked with falling share of agriculture stagnating manufacturing expanding services segment growing trade orientation enhanced FDI inflows etc The consequent growth implications are obvious as far as the numbers like GDP growth rate and Per Capita GDP trend are concerned but how sustainable the associated development is with respect to resource management and environmental governance This book captures the economy wide impacts of various activities on environment in India The environmental impacts on water air soil quality and human health are captured through case studies from different parts of India Analyzing separately the concern areas within agriculture cultivation aquaculture manufacturing industrial pollution power generation services waste management bio medical waste e waste recycling and external sector agricultural trade FDI inflow trade in waste products performance of India the book attempts to find an answer to that crucial question The methodology adopted to capture the environmental impacts of various economic activities is derived from the relevant branches like environmental economics agricultural economics and water resources economics The book focusing on particular sectors indicates the concern areas and possible ways for enhancing environmental governance

Literature Review on Solid Waste Management Practices in India Dr. K. Syamala Devi,
Economic and Environmental Impacts of Waste Paper Trade and Recycling in India International Institute for Environment & Development, 1996

Recycling, International Trade and the Environment P.J. van Beukering, 2013-03-09 During the last century international trade has become indispensable for many economies This is not only the case for trade in primary raw materials and consumer products but also for secondary recyclable materials With the rapid growth of the recycling sector worldwide trade in recyclables increased tremendously It is striking that most of this trade flows from developed to developing countries This book addresses the main causes of this typical trade pattern and investigates its economic and environmental effects by carrying out case studies on waste paper imports in India waste plastics imports in China and used tyre trade in Europe The book concludes by recommending policies that are aimed at preventing negative economic and environmental effects potentially resulting from trade in recyclables The book offers new ideas to researchers who are involved in international trade material flows and waste management and provides new insights for decision makers who are interested in WTO and the Basel Convention

Computational Models in the Economics of Environment and Development A.K. Duraiappah, 2012-12-06 Computational Models in the Economics of Environment and Development provides a step by step guide in designing developing and solving non linear environment development models It accomplishes this by focusing on applied models using real examples as case studies Additionally it gives examples of developing policy interventions based on quantitative model results Finally it uses a simple computer program GAMS to develop and solve models This book is targeted towards university lecturers and students in economic modeling and sustainable development but is also of particular interest to researchers at sustainable development research institutes and policy makers at international sustainable development policy institutions such the World Bank UNDP and UNEP

India Working Barbara Harriss-White, 2003 By drawing on her extensive fieldwork in India and on the adjacent theoretical literature Barbara Harriss White describes the working of the Indian economy through its most important social structures of accumulation Successive chapters explore a range of topics including labour capital the state gender religious plurality caste and space Despite the complexity of the subject the book is vivid and compelling The author's intimate knowledge of the country enables the reader to experience the Indian local scene and to engage with the precariousness of daily life Her conclusion challenges the prevailing notion that liberalisation releases the economy from political interference and leads to a postscript on the economic base for fascism in India This is an intelligent book first published in 2002 by a distinguished scholar for students of economics as well as for those studying the region
