Soviet Union And Syria:

The Soviet Union and Syria (RLE Syria) Efraim Karsh, 2013-11-26 This Chatham House Paper examines the nature of Soviet relations with Syria assessing the commitments made and the gains reaped by Moscow and Damascus in the economic military and political spheres After discussing Soviet interests in the region in general and with regard to Syria in particular the author traces the evolution of the relationship between Moscow and its major Middle Eastern ally since Asad came to power in 1970 While the study argues that huge Soviet military aid has intensified the pro Soviet alignment of Syrian policy it contends that Asad's perception of his country's national interests has also played a large part in shaping the relationship The author concludes that both sides have gained from what is an interdependent relationship If Damascus remains almost wholly dependent on Soviet military aid regional constraints give Syria some leverage over Moscow Without Moscow's support Syria might perhaps not have played such a leading role in the region without Damascus the Soviet Union might have found itself on the sidelines of the Arab Israeli conflict

The Origins of Alliance Stephen M. Walt, 2013-08-09 How are alliances made In this book Stephen M Walt makes a significant contribution to this topic surveying theories of the origins of international alliances and identifying the most important causes of security cooperation between states In addition he proposes a fundamental change in the present conceptions of alliance systems Contrary to traditional balance of power theories Walt shows that states form alliances not simply to balance power but in order to balance threats Walt begins by outlining five general hypotheses about the causes of alliances Drawing upon diplomatic history and a detailed study of alliance formation in the Middle East between 1955 and 1979 he demonstrates that states are more likely to join together against threats than they are to ally themselves with threatening powers Walt also examines the impact of ideology on alliance preferences and the role of foreign aid and transnational penetration His analysis show however that these motives for alignment are relatively less important In his conclusion he examines the implications of balance of threat for U S foreign policy
